The image is a composite of several educational slides and a painter's palette. On the left, a painter's palette with various paint colors (brown, blue, red, green) and a paintbrush is shown. The palette is connected by a line to a slide titled 'PHONICS IN DECODING'. This slide features a girl reading a book and asks, 'Do you remember the common digraph spellings?' It shows examples of 'sh' (shovel) and 'th' (thorn). Below this is a slide titled 'BIOGRAPHY' with a girl reading and a question: 'What is a biography? How could we add details and descriptive words?' To the right is a slide titled 'BUILDING BACKGROUND' with a question: 'Have you ever been to an art gallery, art fair, or art show? What was it like? What did you like most about it?' Further right is a slide titled 'Art for All' showing a photograph of an art gallery. At the bottom right is a slide titled 'George Washington Carver' with a portrait of Carver and a detailed text box. The text box discusses his life, including his work with plants and his inventions for farmers. The slide concludes with the quote, 'George Washington Carver was a scientist, an inventor, and a teacher. He was born in 1864 in Missouri. When George Washington Carver was young, many different African-American slaves worked on his plantation. He became interested in plants and got to know them. He learned how to deal with them. This has always been George Washington Carver's goal. He grew plants on their farms. He had them bring their crops to him. He would then help them. These crops included peanuts, sweet potatoes, and beans. These crops were good for the land. Then he started doing experiments with plants. He learned how to use plants to make products such as soap. During his life, George Washington Carver worked hard and successfully. George Washington Carver died in 1943.'
