International Philosophical Quarterly ,2002 Interpersonal Culture on the Internet Sarah N. Gatson,Amanda Zweerink,2004 Community is a highly contested concept and in the milieu of mass media it is even more highly fraught The book is a community formation narrative adding to our common database of emergent community practice on the Internet The book bolsters our understandings of the substantive processes involved particularly those of boundary formation spatial dimensions of communities and how communities are always both embedded and emerging entities Finally it deals with the question of how seamless and or disruptive the new technology of the Internet is vis a vis our traditional practices of community formation and maintenance We are interested in a problem with communities based in media fandoms Eventually the artist will quit making music the movie will cease to have sequels or the television show will get cancelled What happens to these communities when their basis of interest goes away Is the bond of community enough to keep them together Why do people fracture into other groups Why do some hold on to the one for all all for one mentality chosen offline or do they stick by the friends they made in the community who would not ordinarily be their type In the last couple of years of working with this community the ways in which one gauges when a community ends and when it merely morphs into some other kind of interpersonal phenomenon have been at the forefront of our research The book is ethnographic in method and deals with community concepts such as networks geography boundaries and politics Self-knowledge in the Age of Theory Ann Hartle,1997 The philosophical ideal of self knowledge has been all but forgotten in what Walker Percy calls the age of theory Hartle attempts to recover that ancient philosophical task and to articulate what that ideal could mean in the context of our historical situation She considers and rejects claims that we can attain self knowledge through theory anti theory or narrative and she defends philosophy as a humanistic rather than scientific endeavor Self Knowledge in the Age of Theory will be of

Anglistik Im Internet Doris Feldmann,Fritz-Wilhelm Neumann,Thomas Rommel,1997 Cyberspace and Democracy Diana Saco,1998 Thinking Otherwise David J. Gunkel,2007 Thinking Otherwise is a unique and revealing look at the philosophical dimensions of information and communication technology ICT Among thinkers the importance of what transpires within the virtual world is the effect these activities have on real human beings who exist outside of and beyond the computer generated virtual environment Obviously the result of ICT interactions can lead to good or bad outcomes Gunkel however is not concerned about deciding which argument is more compelling but how these arguments are organised articulated and configured This approach entails challenging criticizing and even changing the terms and conditions of the discourse itself For example the binary nature of computer logic tends to colour debate about subsequent issues by portraying each side as the antithesis of the other That is the switch is turned on or off Thinking Otherwise investigates the unique quandaries complications and possibilities introduced by a form of otherness that veils through technology the identity of the Other Therefore Gunkel formulates alternative ways of proceeding to take into account additional forms of otherness Gunkel submits traditional forms of philosophical reasoning to a critical reevaluation caused by opportunities made available with information technology and also develops alternative ways of thinking that are oriented otherwise
