One night while working on ideas for the science fair, Seth gets an email from Xabigan Industries. The email promises a new piece of technology that will revolutionize the way people use the Internet. And it includes free shipping. The problem is that a lot of computer savvy kids have gone missing over the last few months so Seth wants to be careful with this new piece of tech. Unfortunately his friend and next door neighbor Chen also got the email from Xabigan Industries and he's never careful with anything. When Seth gets home from school that night he learns that Chen has disappeared. Could Xabigan Industries be behind these disappearances?
