Contemplative Practices and Acts of Resistance in Higher Education Michelle C. Chatman, LeeRay Costa, David W. Robinson-Morris, 2024-11-04 The contributors to this volume educators student affairs practitioners and higher education staff heartfully share a broad range of contemplative practices and acts of resistance used within the confines of shattered systems and institutions for themselves their colleagues and their students The narratives in this volume broadly imagine inspire recount and guide readers toward the fullness of their humanity and wholeness within institutions of higher education At the same time these accounts navigate the operational realities of daunting demands on the mind body and spirit the growing turbulence of working on higher education campuses across the country and a sense of urgency toward collective life affirmation within modern higher education institutions Each chapter features critical framing of a concept personal stories of this concept in action and descriptions of contemplative practices for readers to use in their own contexts Together chapter authors demonstrate what it means to be a contemplative practitioner attentive to issues of power racism and marginalization in higher education today With a deep breath and mindful awareness this book invites faculty and staff at colleges and universities on a transformational journey with the contributors toward fullness in pursuit of becoming whole and inspiring change

Faith, Scholarship, and Culture in the 21st Century Alice Ramos, Marie I. George, 2002 While some intellectuals at the end of the nineteenth century argued that scientific progress would eventually cause the demise of religion it is evident that this has not been the case and that contemporary science is in fact not necessarily inimical to a religious worldview So a fruitful dialogue between science and religion has become a reality But there is also a more fundamental question that arises which is not simply the relationship of the sciences or of other disciplines to religion but rather whether faith can and should have an impact on teaching and research The majority of the essays in this volume hold that the Christian faith provides definite cognitive advantages and that to leave one's faith at the entrance of the campus thus separating faith from reason leads to a schizophrenic view of the Christian's intellectual life This volume thus shows how the religious faith of intellectuals not all of whom are Christian exercises a real influence on their scholarship In consonance with the thought of Pope John Paul II it is the contention of the scholars whose essays make up this volume that a faith that imbues research and teaching will effect a transformation not only in themselves but also in their students and eventually in society Hence a faith that is fully received thought out and lived will penetrate culture and there is no doubt that present day culture stands in need of transformation In fact the encyclical Fides et Ratio from which a number of the essays draw inspiration attributes the secularization of the West in great part to the separation of faith from culture Jacques Maritain himself more than fifty years ago recognized that modern and contemporary culture had severed its ties with the sacred and in so doing had turned its back on humanity Now in the twenty first century as always human beings have a profound need for meaning and transcendence a need which scholarly reflection such as that found in this volume can help to satisfy In

Global Animal Law from the Margins Iyan Ofori, 2023-08-01 This book critically engages the emerging field of global animal law from the perspective of an intersectional ethical framework Reconceptualising global animal law this book argues that global animal law overrepresents views from the west as it does not sufficiently engage views from the Global South as well as from Indigenous and other marginalised communities Tracing this imbalance to the early development of animal law s reaction to issues of international trade the book elicits the anthropocentrism and colonialism that underpin this bias In response the book outlines a new intersectional second wave of animal ethics Incorporating marginalised viewpoints it elevates the field beyond the dominant concern with animal welfare and rights And drawing on aspects of decolonial thought earth jurisprudence intersectionality theory and posthumanism it offers a fundamental rethinking of the very basis of global animal law The book s critical yet practical new approach to global animal law will appeal to animal law and environmental law experts legal theorists and those working in the areas of animal studies and ecology
