Official Coptic Manual Communion:

Flaming? Alisha Lola Jones, 2020 Male centered theology a dearth of men in the pews and an overrepresentation of queer males in music ministry these elements coexist within the spaces of historically black Protestant churches creating an atmosphere where simultaneous heteropatriarchy and real masculinity anxieties archetypes of the alpha male preacher the effeminate choir director and homo antagonism are all in play The flamboyant male vocalists formed in the black Pentecostal music ministry tradition through their vocal styles gestures and attire in church services display a spectrum of gender performances from hyper masculine to feminine masculine to their fellow worshippers subtly protesting and critiquing the otherwise heteronormative theology in which the service is entrenched And while the performativity of these men is characterized by cynics as flaming a similar musicalized fire that of the Holy Spirit moves through the bodies of Pentecostal worshippers endowing them religio culturally physically and spiritually like fire shut up in their bones Using the lenses of ethnomusicology musicology anthropology men s studies queer studies and theology Flaming The Peculiar Theo Politics of Fire and Desire in Black Male Gospel Performance observes how male vocalists traverse their tightly knit social networks and negotiate their identities through and beyond the worship experience Author Alisha Jones ultimately addresses the ways in which gospel music and performance can afford African American men not only greater visibility but also an affirmation of their fitness to minister through speech and song

Pomeroy, 1912 Divine Callings Richard N. Pitt, 2012-02 One of the unique aspects of the religious profession is the high percentage of those who claim to be called by God to do their work This call is particularly important within African American Christian traditions Divine Callings offers a rare sociological examination of this markedly understudied phenomenon within black ministry Richard N Pitt draws on over 100 in depth interviews with Black Pentecostal ministers in the Church of God in Christ both those ordained and licensed and those aspiring to examine how these men and women experience and pursue the call Viewing divine calling as much as a social process as it is a spiritual one Pitt delves into the personal stories of these individuals to explore their work as active agents in the process of fulfilling their calling In some cases those called cannot find pastoral work due to gender discrimination lack of clergy positions and educational deficiencies Pitt looks specifically at how those who have not obtained clergy positions understand their call exploring the influences of psychological experience the congregational acceptance of their call and their response to the training process He emphasizes how those called reconceptualize clericalism in terms of who can be called how that call has to be certified and what those called are meant to do offering insight into how social actors adjust to structural constraints
