World Mission Scott N. Callahan,Will Brooks,2019-06-12 World missions needs a fully biblical ethos This is the contention of the editors of and contributors to World Mission a series of essays aimed at reforming popular approaches to missions In the first set of essays contributors develop a biblical theology of world missions from both the Old and New Testaments arguing that the theology of each must stand in the foreground of missions not recede into the background In the second they unfold the Great Commission in sequence detailing how it determines the biblical strategy of all mission enterprises Finally they treat current issues in world missions from the perspective of the sufficiency of Scripture Altogether this book aims to reform missions to be thoroughly not just foundationally biblical a needed correction even among the sincerest missionaries

Allegorizing History Timothy J Furry,2014-05-29 What is history and how does it impact upon biblical interpretation and theology Allegorizing History seeks to answer this question by arguing that conceptions of the past and the purposes of history impact upon biblical interpretation and vice versa Invoking Constantin Fasolt s notion of history as a knowledge of the past as well as the technique by which such knowledge is produced and re fashioning Erich Auerbach s historical enterprise in Figura 1938 Furry contends that the understanding and practice of historical writing is inevitably affected by philosophy and theology thereby rendering all history as figural or allegorical Famous for his Ecclesiastical History of the Anglo Saxon People and biblical commentaries the Venerable Bede is studied in dialogue with Augustine contemporary theology and historical theory to make this interdisciplinary argument

Reconsidering Creation Ex Nihilo in Genesis 1 Nathan J. Chambers, 2020-11-15

There is a broad consensus among biblical scholars that creation ex nihilo from nothing is a late Hellenistic concept with little inherent connection to Genesis 1 and other biblical creation texts. In this book, Nathan J. Chambers forces us to reconsider the question, arguing in favor of reading this chapter of the Bible in terms of ex nihilo creation and demonstrating that there is a sound basis for the early Christian development of the doctrine. Drawing on the theology of Augustine of Hippo and Thomas Aquinas, Chambers considers what the ex nihilo doctrine means and does in classical Christian dogma. He examines ancient Near Eastern cosmological texts that provide a potential context for reading Genesis 1. Recognizing the distance between the possible historical and theological frameworks for interpreting the text, he illuminates how this doctrine developed within early Christian thought as a consequence of the church's commitment to reading Genesis 1 as part of Christian Scripture. Through original close readings of the chapter that engage critically with the work of Jon Levenson, Hermann Gunkel and Brevard Childs, Chambers demonstrates that far from precluding interpretive possibilities, reading Genesis 1 in terms of creation from nothing opens up a variety of interpretive avenues that have largely been overlooked in contemporary biblical scholarship. Timely and innovative, this book makes the case for a new or recovered framework for reading Genesis 1 that will appeal to biblical studies scholars and seminarians.

The Penguin Dictionary of Critical Theory David Macey, 2000

Critical theory has become the common denominator in the study of the modern human sciences. The amount of theory is bewildering and access to it is complex. As new fields of study open up and academics reassess the old disciplines in the light of a new theory, the student is faced with a vast array of critical tools with which to tackle his or her subject. What is required is a book that serves as an introduction to the range of theories and theorists at an academic's disposal. The Penguin Dictionary of Critical Theory fulfills that need. The Penguin Dictionary of Critical Theory is a resource for all students and is an authoritative reference to this huge and confusing subject.

Exposition of the Apocalypse Tyconius

Tyconius of Carthage, 1948

The Exposition of the Apocalypse by Tyconius of Carthage (fl. 380) was pivotal in the history of interpretation of the Book of Revelation. While expositors of the second and third centuries viewed the Apocalypse of John or Book of Revelation as mainly about the time of Antichrist and the end of the world in the late fourth century Tyconius interpreted John's visions as figurative of the struggles facing the Church throughout the entire period.

between the Incarnation and the Second Coming of Christ Tyconius's ecclesiastical reading of the Apocalypse was highly regarded by early medieval commentators like Caesarius of Arles Primasius of Hadrumetum Bede and Beatus of Liebana who often quoted from Tyconius's Exposition in their own Apocalypse commentaries. Unfortunately no complete manuscript of the Exposition by Tyconius has survived. A number of recent scholars however believed that a large portion of his Exposition could be reconstructed from citations of it in the aforementioned early medieval writers and this task was undertaken by Monsignor Roger Gryson. Gryson's edition a reconstruction of the Expositio Apocalypseos of Tyconius was published in 2011 in Corpus Christianorum Series Latina. The present translation of that reconstructed text with introduction and notes exhibits Tyconius's unique non-apocalyptic approach to the Book of Revelation. It also shows that throughout the Exposition Tyconius made use of interpretive rules that he had laid out in an earlier work on hermeneutics the Book of Rules strongly suggesting that Tyconius wrote his Exposition as a companion to his Book of Rules. Thus the Exposition served as an exemplar of how those rules would apply to interpretation of even the most intriguing of biblical texts the Apocalypse Missiology, 2009 An international review Deep Exegesis Peter J. Restoration Literature Paul Hammond, 2009-06-25 This anthology brings together a variety of literature from the period 1660 to 1700 illustrating politics and nation theatre town and country love and friendship and religion and philosophy. It includes Dryden's Absalom and Achitophel and Mac Flecknoe in their entirety and a substantial group of lyrics by Rochester as well as work by diarists satirists dramatists poets and autobiographers Greening Paul David G. Horrell, Cherryl Hunt, Christopher Southgate, 2010 A remarkable wide ranging attempt to read the Pauline literature from an ecological perspective. Greening Paul the first book of its kind traverses carefully between extremes claiming to present Paul's narrative world and simply subjugating the Bible to a contemporary set of ethical values. Skillfully the authors craft their reading of Paul according to the cutting edge insights of narrative criticism and tackle burning questions which assail Christians in the present ecological crisis. Does the biblical tradition inculcate an anthropocentric worldview that gives humanity license to exploit the earth for our benefit? Does biblical eschatology imply that the earth is of only passing significance for the elect? Greening Paul is a timely and adroit re-reading of the apostle Paul that provides a potentially very fruitful ecological vision all the while staying true to the biblical text Books in Print, 1956 The Downside Review, 2005 The Journal of Medieval and Early Modern Studies, 1998 Peace and Its Visions Mediations Between Theology and Society in Western Europe 1050-1200 Jehangir Yezdi Malegam, 2006 Take Hold of the Robe of a Jew Deborah L.
