Agrarian change in tropical landscapes Liz Deakin, Mrigesh Kshatriya, Terry Sunderland, 2016-01-25 Agricultural expansion has transformed and fragmented forest habitats at alarming rates across the globe but particularly so in tropical landscapes The resulting land use configurations encompass varying mosaics of tree cover human settlements and agricultural land units Meanwhile global demand for agricultural commodities is at unprecedented levels The need to feed nine billion people by 2050 in a world of changing food demands is causing increasing agricultural intensification As such market orientated production systems are now increasingly replacing traditional farming practices but at what cost The Agrarian Change project coordinated by the Center for International Forestry Research explores the conservation livelihood and food security implications of land use and agrarian change processes at the landscape scale This book provides detailed background information on seven multi functional landscapes in Ethiopia Cameroon Indonesia Nicaragua Bangladesh Zambia and Burkina Faso The focal landscapes were selected as they exhibit various scenarios of changing forest cover agricultural modification and integration with local and global commodity markets A standardized research protocol will allow for future comparative analyses between these sites Each case study chapter provides a comprehensive description of the physical and socioeconomic context of each focal landscape and a structured account of the historical and political drivers of land use change occurring in the area Each case study also draws on contemporary information obtained from key informant interviews focus group discussions and preliminary data collection regarding key topics of interest including changes in forest cover and dependency on forest products farming practices tenure institutions the role and presence of conservation initiatives and major economic activities. The follow on empirical study is already underway in the landscapes described in this book. It examines responses to agrarian change processes at household, farm, village and landscape levels with a focus on poverty levels, food security, dietary diversity and nutrition, agricultural yields, biodiversity, migration and land tenure. This research intends to provide much needed insights into how landscape scale land use trajectories manifest in local communities and advance understanding of multi functional landscapes as socioecological systems. The Oxford Handbook of Pricing Management Özalp Özer, Robert Phillips, 2012-06-07

The Oxford Handbook of Pricing Management is a comprehensive guide to the theory and practice of pricing across industries, environments and methodologies. The Handbook illustrates the wide variety of pricing approaches that are used in different industries. It also covers the diverse range of methodologies that are needed to support pricing decisions across these different industries. It includes more than 30 chapters written by pricing leaders from industry, consulting and academia. It explains how pricing is actually performed in a range of industries from airlines and internet advertising to electric power and health care. The volume covers the fundamental principles of pricing such as price theory in economics, models of consumer demand, game theory and behavioural issues in pricing as well as specific pricing tactics such as customized pricing, nonlinear pricing, dynamic pricing, sales promotions, markdown management, revenue management and auction pricing. In addition, there are articles on the key issues involved in structuring and managing a pricing organization, setting a global pricing strategy and pricing in business to business settings.

Television on Demand MJ Robinson, 2017-06-01

Since 2010, curation has become a marketing buzzword. Wrenched from its traditional home in the world of high art, everything from food to bed linens to dog toys now finds itself subject to this formerly rarified activity. Most of the time, the term curation is being inaccurately used to refer to the democratization of choice, an inevitable development and side effect of the economics of long tail distribution. However, as any true curator will tell you, curation is so much more than choosing; it relies upon human intelligence, agency, evaluation and carefully considered criteria. An accurate if utopian definition of the much abused and overused term Television on Demand examines what happens when curation becomes the primary way in which media users or viewers engage with mass media such as journalism, music, cinema and most specifically television. Mass media's economic model is based on mass audiences, not a cornucopia of endless options from which individuals can customize their intake. The rise of a curatorial culture where viewers create their own entertainment packages and select from a buffet of viewing options and venues has caused a seismic shift for the post network television industry, one whose ultimate effects and outcomes remain unknown. Curatorial culture is a revolutionary new consumption ecology, one that the post network television producers and distributors have not yet figured out how to monetize as they remain in what anthropologists call a liminal state of a rite of passage: no longer what they used to be but not yet what they will become. How does an advertiser-supported medium find leave alone quantify viewers who DVR This is Us but fast forward through the commercials have a season pass to The Walking Dead via iTunes to
