An African Diaspora in the Making Stephanie Inge Rudwick, Angela Nwagbo, Martin Schmiedl, 2026-01-01

This book addresses the timely research field of Afropean identity politics and provides a first account of the lived experience of Afroczechs and Africans in Czechia. Against the background of country-specific evasive politics on race and a discourse of colonial exceptionalism, the book explains particularities of racial formations. While critical race theory serves as an analytical tool, the book shows that there are also limits to its applicability in the Czech context. Ethnographic data focusing on racialisation and racism as fundamentally shared experiences which unite Africans and Afroczechs demonstrate that there is a momentum in which young and primarily female Afroczech activists are currently creating a diasporic space which forges a racially just and black Czech society. The book yields new insights into the specific conditions which concretise how race, hegemonic whiteness, and essentialist cultural identity ideologies co-construct each other and translate into context-specific racial identity politics.

At the intersection of performance studies and food studies, this pioneering collection explores food as more than just a subject of study; it's a medium of artistic expression, communication, and embodied knowledge. understanding of identity culture and sustainability in an increasingly complex world. The collection stands out for its innovative approach to thinking with food moving beyond traditional academic analysis to engage with food as an active participant in performance and meaning making. Contributors explore how food practices inform our relationships with place, community and environment while addressing urgent questions about global foodways and survival. Through a combination of scholarly research and artistic exploration these essays reveal how food serves as both a lens for understanding contemporary challenges and a tool for imagining new possibilities in performance sustainability and cultural exchange. This interdisciplinary work offers vital insights for scholars, artists and practitioners interested in the intersection of performance, food studies, cultural theory and environmental sustainability, providing fresh perspectives on how food based knowledge and practice can inform our response to global challenges.
