The New Deal

Reading Comprehension

Read the passage and answer the questions.

The Great Depression was a severe economic downturn that began in 1929 and lasted until the mid-1930s. It was the longest and deepest economic recession in the history of the United States.

The Federal Reserve Board, which was created in 1914, was responsible for managing the nation's money supply. During the Great Depression, the Fed's actions were criticized for contributing to the crisis.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal was a series of programs and policies designed to provide relief for the unemployed, create jobs, and stabilize the economy.

The New Deal was a response to the crisis, and it was a turning point in the history of the United States. It was a time when the government took a more active role in the economy.
