MUSCULAR SYSTEM

The image contains three anatomical diagrams of the human muscular system, each showing a different perspective of the body's muscles. The left diagram shows the front view, the middle shows the side view, and the right shows the back view. Each diagram is labeled with the names of various muscles in French, along with their actions. The labels are color-coded: red for muscles, blue for tendons, and black for other anatomical structures. The diagrams are detailed, showing the complex arrangement of muscles in the human body.
