Viral Challenge 2025:

Improved influenza vaccines World Health Organization, 2026-01-09 Seasonal influenza remains a major global public health challenge causing substantial morbidity and mortality each year. The World Health Organization (WHO) conducted the Full Value of Improved Influenza Vaccine Assessment (FVIVA) to evaluate the health economic and policy impacts of next-generation influenza vaccines and identify barriers to their uptake. The FVIVA examines the vaccine development pipeline, quantifies projected health and economic benefits, assesses financial viability for manufacturers and identifies country preferences and implementation challenges. It provides a basis to guide investment policy decisions and introduction strategies supporting stronger seasonal programs and enhanced pandemic preparedness. Using a mixed methods approach including literature review, stakeholder engagement and quantitative modeling, the FVIVA estimates that broad use of improved vaccines could prevent 6.6–18 billion additional influenza cases, 2.3–6.2 million deaths and 21.57 million disability-adjusted life years (DALYs) globally between 2025 and 2050. Economic modeling suggests cost effectiveness of such vaccines in 9–48% of countries at the lowest assumed price point. The FVIVA furthermore describes the proposed financial value to develop and commercialize improved influenza vaccines in both established and emerging markets. The FVIVA emphasizes that collaboration among developers, manufacturers, donors, multilateral organizations and policymakers is essential to maximize public health impact and strengthen global pandemic preparedness.

Viral Diseases and One Health in Africa Juliet Adamma Shenge, Akebe Luther King Abia, 2025-12-25 Viral diseases continue to be a public health threat to humans. Humanity has been affected over the years by several pandemics associated with viruses, the most recent being COVID-19 caused by Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome Coronavirus 2 (SARS-CoV-2). While these pandemics affect humanity globally, low and middle-income countries are usually the most affected, especially those in Africa. The African continent, especially the sub-Saharan part, represents a unique and complex environmental, economic, health system and socio-political landscape which has favored the emergence, re-emergence, survival and spread of viral infections. Most of these countries are characterized by poor sanitation conditions at times with a complete lack of sanitary facilities and access to potable water for personal and household hygiene. Furthermore, most health systems in these countries are weak, usually due to a lack of finances and political will to invest in them. Moreover, social and cultural practices that allow constant interaction between humans, animals and their environment increase the chances of infection. The recent COVID-19 pandemic challenged health systems worldwide, even in developed countries, prompting the need to develop early warning systems to monitor present pandemics and prevent the emergence of new ones or the re-emergence of once-forgotten ones. Therefore, understanding the dynamics of viral disease emergence in the African continent is paramount to protecting the population from future epidemics and pandemics. This book features a collection of research on various emerging and re-emerging viral agents emanating from

Africa which may involve new variants of known viruses or completely new agents their peculiarities including their biology pathogenesis and mechanisms of adaptation in the environment the role of climate change in disease emergence drivers of zoonoses and transmission of these viral diseases between human and animal hosts existing infrastructure including detection and diagnostic tools health systems and mitigators of viral diseases challenges of implementing early warning systems and surveillance for viral disease outbreaks in Africa the impact of viral infections on the continent's economy and the psychosocial impacts on its populations and integrating the One Health approach to preventing disease outbreaks spill over and pandemics with emphasis on sustainable participatory strategies to achieving overall human animal and environmental health This book explores the human animal environment interface of viral diseases especially those with the potential to cause pandemics and their epidemiology connection with the rapidly developing African continent This book will spur discourse on improving research on the continent to inform science One Health and multi dimensional approaches including sectoral and climate actions to combat viral diseases wherever and whenever they emerge
