Mehr Als Alles German Beatrix:

Performance and Performativity in German Cultural Studies Carolin Duttlinger, Lucia Ruprecht, Andrew Webber, 2003
This volume assembles the select proceedings of an international conference held at the University of Cambridge in March 2002. The conference took its cue from the performative turn which has put issues of performance and performativity at the centre of current academic debate in the humanities. The volume aims to show the ways in which German Studies have been turning towards questions of the performative in recent years. On the one hand this involves an increased interest in the performing arts in the scholarship and teaching of German Studies and a growing understanding of the literary text too as a performed process as much as a finished object. On the other an incorporation of theories of performativity not least in the area of gender and sexuality. The essays cover a range of performance media: theatre, film, performance art, photography as well as the representation of turns or acts of performance in literary texts from Goethe to key contemporary writers. Together they indicate exciting new ways forward for German Cultural Studies.

German Song Onstage Natasha Loges, Laura Tunbridge, 2020-05-05
A singer in an evening dress, a grand piano. A modest sized audience, mostly well dressed and silver haired, equipped with translation booklets. A program consisting entirely of songs by one or two composers. This is the way of the Lieder recital these days. While it might seem that this style of performance is a long standing tradition, German Song Onstage demonstrates that it is not. For much of the 19th century the songs of Beethoven, Schubert, Schumann and Brahms were heard in the home salon and no less significantly on the concert platform alongside orchestral and choral works. A dedicated program was rare, a dedicated audience even more so. The Lied was a genre with both more private and more public associations than is commonly recalled. The contributors to this volume explore a broad range of venues, singers and audiences in distinct places and time periods including the United States, the United Kingdom, Russia and Germany from the mid 19th century through the early 20th century. These historical case studies are set alongside reflections from a selection of today's leading musicians offering insights on current Lied practices that will inform future generations of performers, scholars and connoisseurs. Together these case studies unsettle narrow and elitist assumptions about what it meant and still means to present German song onstage by providing a transnational picture of historical Lieder performance and opening up discussions about the relationship between history and performance today.
