

Capstone Case Study

A Strategic HR-Guided Review

- Problem: Since 1998, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan has been ranked as one of the best companies to work for in Michigan, according to Fortune magazine. However, the company's culture has been described as "dysfunctional" and "toxic" by many employees, and the company's financial performance has been declining. The company's CEO, Michael F. Quinn, has been unable to turn around the company's performance.
- Opportunity: Michael F. Quinn has decided to retire in 2023, and the company's board of directors has appointed John Doe as the new CEO. John Doe is a former employee of Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan and has a strong background in strategic HR and organizational development.
- Key Issues: John Doe has identified several key issues that require attention:
 - Employee Turnover: Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan has a high turnover rate, with approximately 20% of employees leaving each year. This is a significant concern for the company, as it leads to a loss of institutional knowledge and experience.
 - Employee Satisfaction: Employee satisfaction has been declining over the past few years, with many employees reporting low levels of job satisfaction and engagement.
 - Employee Health: The company has a high rate of employee health issues, including high rates of obesity, diabetes, and hypertension. This is a concern for the company, as it leads to increased healthcare costs and decreased productivity.
 - Employee Benefits: The company's benefit package is considered to be one of the best in the industry, but it is becoming increasingly difficult to compete with other companies in the area.

John Doe has decided to address these issues by implementing a strategic HR plan. The plan will focus on improving employee satisfaction, reducing employee turnover, and improving employee health. The plan will also include a review of the company's benefit package to ensure that it remains competitive and attractive to employees.

The first step in the strategic HR plan is to conduct a comprehensive organizational review. This will involve a review of the company's structure, processes, and culture to identify areas for improvement. This will include a review of the company's compensation, benefits, and employee development programs. The review will also identify areas for improvement in employee engagement, employee health, and employee retention. The review will also identify areas for improvement in employee satisfaction and employee benefits.

John Doe has decided to hire a consultant to help him implement the strategic HR plan. The consultant will work with John Doe to develop a plan that addresses the key issues identified in the organizational review. The consultant will also help John Doe to develop a communication plan to keep employees informed about the changes being implemented.
