Museums And Education Museums And Education:

Museums and Education Eilean Hooper-Greenhill,2007-12-12 At the beginning of the 21st century museums are challenged on a number of fronts The prioritisation of learning in museums in the context of demands for social justice and cultural democracy combined with cultural policy based on economic rationalism forces museums to review their educational purposes redesign their pedagogies and account for their performance The need to theorise learning and culture for a cultural theory of learning is very pressing If culture acts as a process of signification a means of producing meaning that shapes worldviews learning in museums and other cultural organisations is potentially dynamic and profound producing self identities How is this complexity to be measured What can this measurement reveal about the character of museum based learning The calibration of culture is an international phenomenon and the measurement of the outcomes and impact of learning in museums in England has provided a detailed case study Three national evaluation studies were carried out between 2003 and 2006 based on the conceptual framework of Generic Learning Outcomes Using this revealing data Museums and Education reveals the power of museum pedagogy and as it does questions are raised about traditional museum culture and the potential and challenge for museum futures is suggested Museum and Gallery Education Eilean Hooper-Greenhill,1991 Bibliografie p 195 211 Met reg Historical perspectives management and methodologies audiences and approaches Initiatives in Museum Education Eilean Hooper-Greenhill,1989 Museum Education Nancy W.

Berry,Susan M. Mayer,1989 This anthology is organized in two sections The first part records foundational background and sets educational goals The second part deals directly with the issue of teaching in the museum and considers specific tools of the education department

Museums and Higher Education Working Together Jos Boys,2016-04-22 Over the last twenty years the educational role of the museum has come to be central to its mission There are now far more educational opportunities new spaces new interfaces both digital and physical and a growing number of education and interpretation departments educational curators and public engagement programmes Despite these developments however higher education has remained a marginal collaborator compared to primary and secondary schools and to other forms of adult learning This has meant that the possibilities for partnerships between universities colleges museums and galleries has remained relatively unexplored especially in relation to their potential for generating innovative patterns of research and learning This book addresses the key issues which are preventing such partnerships and examines how to enable more effective and creative connections between museums and higher education The authors identify conceptual and practical barriers and explore whether current academic models are fit for purpose They argue that as pressures mount on public educational resources around the world there needs to be an urgent increase in the exchange of knowledge across these sectors and the forging of world class scholarly partnerships Examples of research undertaken internationally offer best practice models for collaboration and integration This book will be compulsory reading for museum and educational specialists and those interested in engaging in museum higher education partnerships It will also be of interest to those involved in policy and decision making in education the museum sector and national and local government Learning in the Museum George E. Hein,2002-09-11 Learning in the Museum examines major issues and shows how research in visitor studies and the philosophy of education can be applied to facilitate a meaningful educational experience in museums Hein combines a brief history of education in public museums with a rigorous examination of how the educational theories of Dewey Piaget Vygotsky and subsequent theorists relate to learning in the museum Surveying a wide range of research methods employed in visitor studies is illustrated with examples taken from museums around the world Hein explores how visitors can best learn from exhibitions which are physically socially and intellectually accessible to every single visitor He shows how museums can adapt to create this kind of environment to provide what he calls the constructivist museum Providing essential theoretical analysis for students this volume also serves as a practical guide for all museum professionals on how to adapt their museums to maximize the educational experience of every visitor Using Museums as an Educational Resource Graeme K. Talboys,2016-02-17 Visits to museums have long been an important aspect of the education of young people and in recent years it has been increasingly recognised that education is core to the purpose of the museum Not only do they introduce students to the many and varied forms of our material culture they also introduce them to social historical and scientific encounters that are difficult to find elsewhere The second edition of this popular book takes account of the ongoing changes in both museums and education to provide a comprehensive introduction for student teachers practising teachers and other educators to all that is required to make good educational use of museums It explores what a museum is their value in primary and secondary education and why they require special teaching skills It then goes on to look at the practicalities of planning preparing and conducting a visit including risk assessment Next it introduces the basic skills involved in working with the resources that are required to make the best educational use of museums including online and digital resources Finally the author considers ways of following up work done outside the classroom including some of the longer term strategies that teachers should consider Museums of Education Benjamin Richard Andrews,1908

Museums and Design Education Ms Beth Cook,Ms Catherine Speight,Ms Rebecca Reynolds,2012-10-01 How can museum educators and higher education tutors enhance the way HE students use museums There are many examples in the UK of museums and universities working together in productive and innovative ways but these relationships tend to be based on individual enthusiasm and opportunistic arrangements Despite the growing importance of museum education departments higher education tends to be overlooked by museums This book looks at the interaction between design students and museums and explores issues projects and emerging ideas about how museums can better support HE students It illustrates the general lessons that can be learnt both strategic and practical which can help to bring about long term and constructive relationships between museums and universities in order to enable effective student learning Learning to Live Kate

Bellamy,Carey Oppenheim,2009 This collection of essays authored by prominent and expert figures from the worlds of culture and education addresses key questions about the role of museums and other institutes of material culture in young peopleU 0080U 0099s wellbeing and learning Our aim in bringing their thinking together was to explore what museums working with policymakers and delivery bodies such as schools can and should be doing both within and beyond the classroom to inspire learning and creativity among all young people
