Leadership, Authority and Representation in British Muslim Communities Sophie Gilliat-Ray, Riyaz Timol, 2021-01-26 The contributions explore Muslim religious leadership in multiple forms and settings While traditional authority is usually correlated with theology and piety as in the case of classically trained ulema the public advocacy of Muslim community concerns is often headed by those with professionalized skillsets and civic experience In an increasingly digital world both women and men exercise leadership in novel ways and sites of authority are refracted from traditional loci such as mosques and seminaries to new and unexpected places This collection provides systematic focus on a topic that has hitherto been given rather diffuse consideration It complements historical work on community leadership as well as more contemporary discussion on the training and role of Islamic religious authorities It will be of interest to scholars in Religious Studies Sociology Political Science History and Islamic Studies

Britain's rural Muslims Sarah Hackett, 2020-06-06 Immigration has long been associated with the urban landscape from accounts of inner city racial tension and discrimination during the 1960s and 1970s and studies of minority communities of the 1980s and 1990s to the increased focus on cities amongst contemporary scholars of migration and diaspora. Though cities have long provided the geographical frameworks within which a significant share of post war migration has taken place, Sarah Hackett argues that there has long existed a rural dimension to Muslim integration in Britain. This book offers the first comprehensive study of Muslim migrant integration in rural Britain across the post 1960s period, examining the previously unexplored relationship between Muslim integration and rurality by using the county of Wiltshire in the South West of England as a case study. Drawing upon a range of archival material and oral histories, it challenges the long held assumption that local authorities in more rural areas have been inactive and even disinterested in devising and implementing migration integration and diversity policies, and sheds light on smaller and more dispersed Muslim communities that have traditionally been written out of Britain's immigration history.

The Oxford Handbook of European Islam Jocelyne Cesari, 2014-10-30. For centuries Muslim countries and Europe have engaged one another through theological dialogues, diplomatic missions, political rivalries and power struggles. In the last thirty years, due in large part to globalization and migration from Islamic countries to the West, what was previously an engagement across national and cultural boundaries has increasingly become an internalized encounter within Europe itself. Questions of the Hijab in schools, freedom of expression in the wake of the Danish Cartoon crisis, and the role of Sharia have come to the forefront of contemporary European discourse. The Oxford Handbook of European Islam is the first collection to present a comprehensive approach to the multiple and changing ways Islam has been studied across European countries. Parts one to three address the state of knowledge of Islam and Muslims within a selection of European countries while presenting a critical view of the most up to date data specific to each country. These chapters analyse the immigration cycles and policies related to the presence of Muslims, tackling issues such as discrimination, post colonial identity, adaptation and assimilation. The thematic chapters in parts four and five examine secularism, radicalization, Sharia, Hijab and Islamophobia, with the goal of synthesizing different national discussions into a more comparative theoretical framework. The Handbook attempts to balance cutting edge assessment with the knowledge that the content itself will eventually be superseded by events. Featuring eighteen newly commissioned essays by noted scholars in the field, this volume will provide an excellent resource for students and scholars interested in European Studies, immigration, Islamic studies and the sociology of religion.
