

THE BASIC STITCHES

Here we introduce nine basic stitches used in off-loom beadweaving. Besides showing you how to make the stitches, we show you how to count stitches and rows, make increases and decreases, and finish off thread. In this book we have not covered every off-loom stitch and technique, but you will find other stitches and techniques much more accessible once you have mastered the ones we introduce. You will also be ready to make your own designs and, of course, create your own beautiful jewelry.

Peyote stitch

■ Flat peyote stitch (even-count)

Beads for Rows 1 and 2 are strung at the same time. In Row 3, you string a new bead, skip a bead on the previous row, and pick up the next one. Starting with Row 4, you pick up the beads that protrude from the preceding row.

■ Flat peyote stitch (odd-count)

When you have no next bead to go to, you will need to make turns in some of the beads already strung so that you can start the next row.

■ Finishing off thread

Pass needle back through beads on the diagonal, forming intersections two or three times. Cut thread.

■ Making a one-stitch increase at an edge

String 2 beads at the edge.

■ Making a one-stitch decrease at an edge

Make turns as you would with odd-count peyote stitch. The thread should go into the bead at the edge on the diagonal.

■ Tubular peyote stitch (even-count) step up

To prepare for the next row, pass needle through first bead picked up in row and first bead strung.

■ Tubular peyote stitch (odd-count) spiral

There is no "step up" for odd-count tubular peyote stitch.
