H. White,2015-07-26 Excerpt from A Manual of Naval Architecture For the Use of Officers of the Royal Navy Officers of the Mercantile Marine Shipbuilders Shipowners and Yachtsmen The first edition of this book published in 1877 grew out of lectures delivered at the Royal Naval College to naval officers and others studying there In these lectures it was my endeavour to popularize and explain some of the many problems of naval architecture in a manner which should be intelligible to those who were interested in or connected with shipping but not engaged as naval architects or shipbuilders Many officers who attended the lectures requested that they might be published and from shipowners yachtsmen and other persons came inquiries for a book containing in popular language a comprehensive summary of the theory of naval architecture Existing treatises had been written mainly for the use of those who desired to obtain an acquaintance with the subject which would fit them for the practice of ship designing To benefit by these treatises a considerable knowledge of mathematics was necessary There was obviously a want in the literature of naval architecture and in its original form this book was intended to supply that want and to enable persons outside the profession of the naval architect to obtain a general acquaintance with the principles of the construction propulsion and behaviour of ships The book was written therefore in popular language and the mathematics introduced were of the simplest character Explanations were given of many terms and mechanical principles which required no explanations to readers possessing a good knowledge of mathematics The details of theoretical investigations were omitted but the general modes of procedure were sketched and the practical deductions fully explained and illustrated From this point of view the survey of the theory of naval architecture was made as complete as possible About the Publisher Forgotten Books

Excerpt from A Manual of Naval Architecture For the Use of Officers of the Royal Navy Officers of the Mercantile Marine Shipbuilders and Shipowners This book has been undertaken in the hope that it may supply a want in the literature of naval architecture Existing treatises have been written mainly for the use of those who desired to obtain the knowledge of the subject required in the practice of ship designing in all or nearly all these books mathematical language is freely used and without a considerable knowledge of mathematics no one can follow the reasoning My work at the Royal Naval College has however shown me that outside the profession of the naval architect there are to be found very many persons more or less intimately connected with shipping who desire to obtain acquaintance with the principles of ship construction but cannot obtain the information from existing text books Officers of the Royal Navy have repeatedly asked me to recommend a book which contained in popular language a comprehensive summary of the theory of naval architecture Being unable to name such a book and feeling confident that the desire expressed by 015 core of the Royal Navy will be shared by many officers of the mercantile marine as well as shipbuilders shipowners and others I decided to attempt the task now completed I venture to hope that the work may be found acceptable also as an introduction for students to the more mathematical treatment of the subject contained in other works and that even naval architects themselves may find some valuable information herein About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
