Musical Communication Musical Communication:

Musical Communication Dorothy Miell, Raymond MacDonald, David J. Hargreaves, 2005-07-14 Bringing together leading researchers from a variety of academic and applied backgrounds this book examines how music can be used to communicate as well as the biological cognitive social and cultural processes which underlie such communication BOOK JACKET

Wittgenstein and the Conditions of Musical Communication Hanne Appelqvist, 2008 This work argues against the widely held view that to understand music the listeners must hear musical works and passages as expressive of emotions The argument developed in the work arises from Wittgenstein's later account of language It is argued that if his later account of the meaning and the understanding of natural language is applied to the case of music then what follows is a version of musical formalism This is to say that insofar as we can talk about musical communication i.e. the understanding of musical phrases and their semantic content then the grounds of this communication must reside in the conventional rules of a musical system

Cognitive Bases of Musical Communication Mari Riess Jones, Susan Holleran, American Psychological Association, Ohio State University, 1992-01 Cognitive Bases of Musical Communication systematically extends and deepens our knowledge of the mechanisms by which music is communicated among human beings By providing insight into possible applications of musical patterns to cognitive theory in general this volume breaks new ground in this fruitful intriguing new psychological discipline PsycINFO Database Record c 2004 APA all rights reserved

The Theory of Musical Communication Alexander N. Yakoupov, 2016-08-17 This book provides an overview of the communicative processes that encompass the creation interpretation perception and evaluation of the various phenomena constituting musical art The numerous internal and external communicative links in the spheres of the composer the performer the listener and the musicologist critic links which constitute a complex system of the transmission of musical information are considered from a socio cultural perspective which determines the high social role of the academic genres of music The book will be of use to professional musicians and to all those interested in the acute problems of musicology musical aesthetics the sociology of music and musical pedagogics

Approaches to Communication through Music Margaret Corke, 2014-06-03 One of the ways forward when working with those who have little or no speech or limited comprehension of language is to use music In this book tried and tested approaches and activities devised to promote the development of communication and social interaction at a fundamental level are clearly set out The ethos behind this manual is a person centered approach within a structured framework and allowing for differentiation and improvisation according to the learner's individual needs and developmental levels This is a practical guide that contains lots of ideas and original activities for the specialist and non specialist alike It provides original songs and music scores activities and games and suggestions for group work for learners at a variety of levels This book will be helpful to teachers carers therapists and parents who work or live with people with severe or profound and multiple learning difficulties Music teachers and coordinators working in mainstream early years and primary education will also find the songs and activities useful

Pathways in Christian Music Communication Roberta R. King,2009-01-01

Life is a pilgrimage For the Senufo of Cote d Ivoire life consists of following the kologo that is the path the road or the way As such kologo is a key Senufo term that speaks of the directions people choose to follow in life A central aspect of following the Christian pathway among Senufo believers occurs through music Music serves as a major communication vehicle that speaks profoundly into the people s lives Thus Pathways in Christian Music Communication addresses the problem of contextualization of Christianity in Africa via the use of a people s indigenous music It focuses on the significance of culturally appropriate songs for effective communication of the Gospel within the African context In providing a history of the development of Christian songs among the Senufo a musical analysis of the songs and music culture identifying communication theory at work within the music making process and a content analysis of an emerging Senufo lyric theology King shows the pivotal role that a people s cultural music plays in integrating a people s worldview and daily lives with biblical teaching Finally King examines the influence and effect of songs in communicating the Gospel by showing how the pathway of a song leads to changes of allegiance to the living God and transformed lives Although set in West Africa essential principles and guidelines for doing ethnomusicological studies within missiology lies at the heart of this work

1787, □□□□□□□□ The Musical Communication of Human Emotions

Andrés Jose Lasaga,2017

Expression of emotion in music and vocal communication Anjali Bhatara,Petri Laukka,Daniel J. Levitin,2014-08-18

Two of the most important social skills in humans are the ability to determine the moods of those around us and to use this to guide our behavior To accomplish this we make use of numerous cues Among the most important are vocal cues from both speech and non speech sounds Music is also a reliable method for communicating emotion It is often present in social situations and can serve to unify a group s mood for ceremonial purposes funerals weddings or general social interactions Scientists and philosophers have speculated on the origins of music and language and the possible common bases of emotional expression through music speech and other vocalizations They have found increasing evidence of commonalities among them However the domains in which researchers investigate these topics do not always overlap or share a common language so communication between disciplines has been limited The aim of this Research Topic is to bring together research across multiple disciplines related to the production and perception of emotional cues in music speech and non verbal vocalizations This includes natural sounds produced by human and non human primates as well as synthesized sounds Research methodology includes survey behavioral and neuroimaging techniques investigating adults as well as developmental populations including those with atypical development Studies using laboratory tasks as well as studies in more naturalistic settings are included

Music Therapy Betsey King Brunk,2004

Music therapy is the use of music to address non musical goals More and more parents and professionals are finding that music can break down barriers for children with autism in areas such as cognition communication and socialization While music therapists are experienced professionals who create unique interventions many of the principles of music therapy can be implemented by other therapists teachers and parents even by people who do not consider themselves musical This book explains how to use the many elements of music to foster communication and teaches you how to adapt music to meet a child's needs Visual aids and already written songs will get you started Helpful sections include Music Therapy Is A Qualified Music Therapist The Music in Music Therapy To Assist or Motivate Achieving Non Musical Goals Music Captivates and Maintains Attention Music Structures Time Music Provides a Safe Place to Practice Social Skills Music Lets Children Control Their Environment Music Can Create or Emphasize a Routine

Wittgenstein and the Conditions of Musical Communication Hanne Ahonen, 2007 This thesis argues against the widely held view that to understand music the listeners must hear musical works and passages as expressive of emotions The argument developed in the thesis arises from Wittgenstein's later account of language It is argued that if his later account of the meaning and the understanding of natural language is applied to the case of music then what follows is a version of musical formalism This is to say that insofar as we can talk about musical communication i.e. the understanding of musical phrases and their semantic content then the grounds of this communication must reside in the conventional rules of a musical system

On the Specificity of Musical Communication Philip Tagg, 1981

Models of Musical Communication and Cognition Marc Leman, 1989

Popular Music and Communication James Lull, 1987-10 Popular Music and Communication is a provocative discussion of the role of music in the social and cultural life of young people International in scope and highly conceptual in its framework the book shows that music as communication is a distinct pervasive and influential process which deserves serious attention Contributors consider the creation recording marketing and distribution of popular music They also discuss the social and cultural implications of this powerful form of communication

Representation, Cognition, and Communication: Invented Notation in Children's Musical Communication, In a text that seeks to explore the topic of musical communication it seems sensible to devote some thought to the role and function of music notation in musical communication In this chapter I shall examine the communicative role of invented notation in children's musical experience The study of children's invented notation has sparked considerable interest in recent years Researchers have explored the signs and symbols children employ when inventing notations speculated on what is communicated in children's invented notations and suggested developmental trajectories in musical cognition from the study of children's invented notations In this chapter I shall provide an overview of research in the realm of children's thinking as users of invented notation examine the communicative role of invented notations as initiation into the use of conventional symbolic systems and or externalization of musical thinking and explore the potential relationship of invented notation to other forms of sign making activity drawing writing using mathematical symbols

A Model for Culture-independent Music Analysis Paul Lewis, 19??

Music Therapy Even Ruud, 1998 An evocative series of essays designed to expand existing concepts of music therapy theory practice and research The author

provides an indepth examination of fundamental questions for our profession What is health Is music therapy a health profession or cultural movement What concepts of music and man are indigenous to music therapy How is music improvisation communicative What is our science for the interpretation of musical meaning What is the relation between music and emotions How does music contribute to our individual and collective identity The author brings his extensive experience in musicology philosophy and music therapy in formulating answers that will define our future Through Musical Communication to Development of Competence in Culture Awareness and Expression Barbara Sicherl-Kafol, Olga Denac, 2011 This study presents an example of a music workshop which brought together pupils and students of different music schools students of musicology composition and classroom teaching teachers professors and composer on the common topics in contemporary music The purpose of the workshop was to encourage an active and creative participation of everybody involved in a way that went beyond the usual practice used in cultural activities in education In this respect the workshop emphasised the importance of the creative expression of experience ideas and emotions in the field of music The results of the interview which were conducted by some of the workshop participants point out the complex occurrence of various indicators which at the level of personal and social factors have determined the nature of communication through contemporary music and indirectly influenced the development of competence in cultural awareness and expression Challenges identified included students lack of musical experiences for contemporary music at all educational levels the low priority given to contemporary music in schools as well as teachers lack of professional knowledge in this field The study highlights the need for more experience in contemporary musical language in general and music professional schools Contains 3 footnotes Music Communication in the 21st Century Lonce Wyse, 2007 The objective of this research is to develop new methods and structures to support communication between members of musical ensembles and to study how specific kinds of interactive communication strategies can enable new kinds of collaborative musical practice and experience
