Navigating World History Historians Create A Global Past:

Navigating World History P. Manning, 2003-05-15 World history has expanded dramatically in recent years primarily as a teaching field and increasingly as a research field. Growing numbers of teachers and Ph.D.s in history are required to teach the subject. They must be current on topics from human evolution to industrial development in Song dynasty China to today's disease patterns and then link these disparate topics into a coherent course. Numerous textbooks in print and in preparation summarize the field of world history at an introductory level. But good teaching also requires advanced training for teachers and access to a stream of new research from scholars trained as world historians. In this book Patrick Manning provides the first comprehensive overview of the academic field of world history. He reviews patterns of research and debate and proposes guidelines for study by teachers and by researchers in world history.

Recent Themes in World History and the History of the West Donald A. Yerxa, 2009 New insights on global histories and Western civilization from leading scholars in the field. Described as the New York Review of Books for history Historically Speaking has emerged as one of the most distinctive historical publications in recent years actively seeking out contributions from a pantheon of leading voices in historical discourse from both inside and outside academia. Recent Themes in World History and the History of the West represents some of the best writing on Western civilization and world history in the past five years. This collection of essays and interviews from Historically Speaking gives leading historians approaches to the continually evolving field of world history with a specific emphasis on the relationship of Western civilization to the history of the world. The book also discusses the effect of empire on global history and the many ways empire continues to manifest in the contemporary world. The contributors discuss world history as an intricate story of the connections within the global community rather than a tidy static narrative that attempts to summarize everything in our global past. In this volume the study of world history is presented as a constantly comparative endeavor concerned with the major themes that link and divide humanity.

Themes in the History of Africa and the Atlantic World Donald A. Yerxa,2008 Drawn from the articles and forums in the Historical Societys tabloid publication Historically Speaking these pieces explore the relationship of Africa to world history map the current state of the burgeoning field of Atlantic history and debate the accuracy of Olaudah Equianos seminal narrative The standard approach of historians often compresses the African past into interpretive frameworks that leave Africans without a history of their own A case is made here for an alternative approach a multicentric world history that gives voice to the various ways Africans experienced the past and an impressive array of Africanist and world historians respond The volume also assesses the state of Atlantic Studies and includes a spirited forum on a provocative thesis that Olaudah Equiano author of the most important account available of the horrific Middle Passage was actually born in South Carolina and not Africa Designed to serve as a companion text for courses in African Atlantic and world history this volume will also appeal to lay readers interested in contemporary approaches to these topics The Easternization of the West Nordin
