Analysis of the value of new generation of egovernment services and how can the public sector become an agent of innovation through ICT Galasso, G.; Garbasso, G.; Farina, G.; Osimo, D.; Mureddu, F.; Kalvet, T.; Waller, P., 2016-01-01 The current social, economic, and technological developments are leading towards the emergence of a new generation of eGovernment Services defined within the scope of the study as Open eGovernment Services (OGS). Such OGS are open, collaborative, and digital-based services characterised by a deliberate, declared, and purposeful effort to increase openness and collaboration through technology in order to deliver increased public value. These open, collaborative, and co-production features exist in all phases of the design, deployment, implementation, and delivery of the service. In this regard, the objective of the study was to better understand what OGS are, what is their value for society, and how the public sector should innovate to foster their use and maximize their impact on society. To this aim, the study produced the following results: 1) a definition and a taxonomy of OGS; 2) an assessment of the value of OGS based on a costs/benefits analysis aggregated and extrapolated across European countries, completed with an assessment of the non-monetized benefits; 3) the assessment of how public sector innovation happens and how the implementation of OGS can be accelerated by means of appropriate policy measures.

p 20 Under the best of circumstances benchmarking can be difficult time consuming and costly Service benchmarking is made more difficult than benchmarking in manufacturing because it appears that those things which are important to the customer may differ significantly from one service industry to another Sower et al 2001 Because of the question about the universality of the definition of quality in the service industry and the impact on benchmarking activities the editors obtained as broad a cross section of papers for this special issue as possible The industries represented by the nine papers in this issue cover a broad spectrum of service industries from sports to banking from laboratory services to hospitality and tourism
