My Generation Collective Autobiography And Identity Politics Wisconsin Studies In Autobiography:

My Generation John Downton Hazlett, 1998 John Hazlett's engaging study of writers from the 1960s demonstrates the ways in which the idea of the generation has affected autobiographical writing in this century. Autobiographers from the sixties claim to speak on behalf of all members of their generation. However, each writer presents a unique political and personal agenda. Consuming Autobiographies Claire Boyle, 2017-12-02 Since 1975 French literary writing has been marked by an autobiographical turn which has seen authors increasingly often tap into the vein of what the French term écriture de soi. This coincides paradoxically with the death of autobiography as these authors self-consciously distance themselves and their writings from conventional autobiography, founding a nouvelle autobiographie where the very possibility of autobiographical expression is questioned. In the first book-length study in English to address this phenomenon, Claire Boyle sheds a new light on this hostility toward autobiography through a series of ground-breaking studies of estrangement in autobiographical works by major post-war authors: Nathalie Sarraute, Georges Perec, Jean Genet, and Hélène Cixous. She identifies autobiography as a site of conflict between writer and reader as authors struggle to assert the unknowability of their identity in the face of a readership resolutely desiring privileged knowledge. Autobiography emerges as a deeply troubling genre for authors with the reader as an antagonistic consumer of the autobiographical self. The Art and Science of Trauma and the Autobiographical Meg Jensen, 2019-01-04 This book examines posttraumatic autobiographical projects elucidating the complex relationship between the science of trauma and how that idea is understood across various scientific disciplines and the rhetorical strategies of fragmentation, dissociation, reticence, and repetitive troping widely used in the representation of traumatic experience. From autobiographical fictions to prison poems, from witness testimony to autobiography and from testimonio to war memorials, otherwise dissimilar projects speak of past suffering through a limited and even predictable discourse in search of healing. Drawing on approaches from literary, human rights, and cultural studies that highlight relations between trauma, language, meaning, and selfhood and the latest research on the science of trauma from the fields of clinical, behavioral, and evolutionary psychology and neuroscience, I read such autobiographical projects not as symptoms but as complex interrogative negotiations of trauma and its aftermath: commemorative and performative narratives navigating aesthetic, biological, cultural, linguistic, and emotional pressure and inspiration. Auto/biography Studies, 2001 Encyclopedia of Life Writing Margaretta Jolly, 2013-12-04 First published in 2001, Routledge is an imprint of Taylor & Francis, an informa company. What America Read Gordon Hutner, 2009-11-05 Despite the vigorous study of modern American fiction today, readers are only familiar with a partial shelf of a vast library. Gordon Hutner describes the distorted canonized history of the twentieth-century American novel as a record of modern classics insufficiently appreciated in their day but recuperated by scholars in order to shape the grand tradition of Hemingway, Fitzgerald, and Faulkner. In presenting literary history this way, Hutner argues, scholars have forgotten a rich treasury of realist novels that recount the story of the American middle class's confrontation with modernity Reading these novels now offers an extraordinary opportunity to witness debates about what kind of nation America would become and what place its newly dominant middle class would have and Hutner suggests should also lead us to wonder how our own contemporary novels will be remembered
