

What's in my dog's vomit?

"Coffee grounds"

Blood that has been digested can look like coffee grounds.

Fresh blood

Let your vet know whether there is a large or small amount of blood.

Lots of green liquid

A large amount of green liquid can be a symptom of a gut blockage.

↑
Might be an emergency: contact your vet straight away for advice

↓
If your dog has only vomited once and is otherwise well, you can monitor at home

Undigested food

Check whether your dog is regurgitating (no retching) or vomiting (includes retching).

Grass

Eating grass is normal for dogs so it might turn up in their vomit.

Yellow bile

Bile from the gall bladder is usually yellow or greenish-yellow.

Foam/froth

Foam in vomit can be normal if your dog is producing foam/froth but no vomit then call your vet immediately.

*Always call your vet if you're concerned
