Mod 6 - Correlation and Experimentation
Each subheading on the right hand side should include one or two sentences of corresponding information.
Correlation	Correlation is a statistical measure of the degree to which two variables are related. It is represented by a number between -1 and 1. A positive correlation indicates that as one variable increases, the other variable also tends to increase. A negative correlation indicates that as one variable increases, the other variable tends to decrease. A correlation of 0 indicates no relationship between the variables. Correlation and Causation Correlation does not imply causation. Just because two variables are correlated does not mean that one variable causes the other to change. Causation implies that one variable is responsible for changes in another variable.
