Mindful Design Scott Riley, 2024-04-02 Learn to create seamless designs backed by a responsible understanding of the human mind. This new edition is fully updated and reworked to employ a realistic, challenging and practical approach to interface design, presenting state of the art scientific studies in behavioral sciences, interface design and the psychology of design. All with modern up to date examples and screenshots. The practical portion of this edition has been completely reworked, giving you the chance to follow along with a real proven design process that has produced several successful products imbued with the principles of mindful responsible design. You'll examine how human behavior can be used to integrate your product design into lifestyle rather than interrupt it and make decisions for the good of those that are using your product. You will also learn about the neurological aspects and limitations of human vision and perception about our attachment to harmony and dissonance and about our brain's propensity towards pattern recognition and how we perceive the world around us. In the second half of the book you'll follow along with the key phases of a design project, implementing what you have learned in an end to end practical setting. Design is a responsibility but not enough designers understand the human mind or the process of thought. Mindful Design Second Edition introduces the areas of brain science that matter to designers and passionately explains how those areas affect each human's day to day experiences with products and interfaces, providing a battle tested toolkit to help you make responsible design decisions. What You'll Learn: Review how attention and distraction work and the cost of attentional switching. Use Gestalt principles to communicate visual grouping. Ensure your underlying models make sense to your audience. Use time progression and transition to create a composition. Carefully examine controlling behavior through reductionist and behaviorist motivation concepts. Apply the theoretical knowledge to practical mindful interface design. Who This Book Is For: The primary audience for this book is professional designers who wish to learn more about the human mind and how to apply that to their work. The book is also useful for design focused product owners and startup founders who wish to apply ethical thinking to a team or when bootstrapping their products. The secondary audience is design students who are either studying a traditional visual design course or a UX interaction design course who have a desire to learn how they might be able to apply mindful design to their early careers. Finally, a tertiary audience for this book would be tutors involved in teaching design or peripheral courses who may wish to incorporate its teachings into their lectures, workshops or seminars.

Design for Life Sim Van der Ryn, 2005 Design for Life: The Architecture of Sim Van der Ryn surveys the work and principles of Sim Van der Ryn one of the world's most important leaders in the field of sustainable architecture. Sharing his years of experience as a teacher and using his building designs as examples the author shows us that buildings are not objects but organisms and cities are not machines but complex ecosystems. Fleeing Holland just weeks before Hitler's invasion the Van der Ryn family settled in the outskirts of New York City. Young Sim grew up exploring the tiny pockets of grassy puddles and swamps he found in Queens. An avid high school art student he progressed to studying architecture in college. But he found the pervading modernist style buildings to be emotionally cold and lacking human sensitivity. He longed for a way to restore architecture back to life. His breakthrough came during the frequent campus visits of R. Buckminster Fuller who inspired him to think and design with the geometries of the natural world. Design for Life shows how the young architect began to look at the world with new eyes and saw the shifting patterns in nature and how these patterns profoundly affect how we live and work in the structures we build. Using his own projects and teaching experiences as examples the author reveals the evolution of his thinking and the emergence of a new process of collaborative design that honors the buildings users and connects them to the Earth. The book shows how architecture has created physical and mental barriers that separate us from our world but how we can recover the soul of architecture and reconnect with our natural surroundings. Sim Van der Ryn is the president of Van der Ryn Architects a Northern California firm known for its work in sustainable architecture. He taught architecture and design at the University of California Berkeley for over 30 years inspiring a new generation to create buildings and communities that are sensitive to place climate and the flow of human interactions. Appointed California State Architect in the 1970s by then Governor Jerry Brown Van der Ryn introduced the nation's first energy efficient government building projects. His vision and persuasive skills heralded a golden age of ecologically sensitive design and resulted in the adoption of strict energy standards and disability access standards for all state buildings and parks. As the author of six groundbreaking books about planning and design including Sustainable Communities 1986 with Peter Calthorpe Ecological Design 1996 with Stuart Cowan and numerous articles Van der Ryn has helped inspire architects to see the myriad ways they can apply physical and social ecology to architecture and environmental design. The author lives and works in Northern California across the Golden Gate Bridge from San Francisco.
