Narration, Identity, and Historical Consciousness Jürgen Straub, 2006-01-01 A generally acknowledged characteristic of modern life namely the temporalization of experience inextricable from our intensified experience of contingency and difference has until now remained largely outside psychology's purview Wherever questions about the development structure and function of the concept of time have been posed for example by Piaget and other founders of genetic structuralism they have been concerned predominantly with concepts of physical chronometrical time and related concepts e.g. velocity All the contributions to the present volume attempt to close this gap A larger number are especially interested in the narration of stories Overviews of the relevant literature as well as empirical case studies appear alongside theoretical and methodological reflections Most contributions refer to specifically historical phenomena and meaning constructions Some touch on the subjects of biographical memory and biographical constructions of reality Of all the various affinities between the contributions collected here the most important is their consistent attention to issues of the constitution and representation of temporal experience

Making Sense of Social Studies David Jenness, 1990 EDUCATION Narrative Power and Liberal Truth Eldon J. Eisenach, 2002-08-15 Liberal political thought from its origins in the seventeenth century through today's rights discourse is grounded in the ideal of the autonomous individual As the theory holds these individuals are born in freedom from religious political social or economic obligations and then construct these systems through individual and collective choices Over the past thirty years however this understanding of freedom has been challenged from a variety of perspectives Eldon J Eisenach has been at the forefront of that challenge stressing the centrality of religious elements and assumptions in liberal writings that many scholars suppressed or ignored In Narrative Power and Liberal Truth Eisenach brings together eleven of his previously published essays to demonstrate that many postmodernist ideas of persons and freedom are already present within the tradition of liberal political philosophy and that liberalism itself is more capacious of human experience and meanings than modern critiques allow Pursuit of Meaning Jürgen Straub, 2006 The fields of cross cultural and cultural psychology both acknowledge the role of culture for the constitution of a meaningful practice There are notable differences as well as remarkable commonalities between nomologically oriented cross cultural psychology on the one hand and interpretive cultural psychology on the other Contributions to this book discuss recent theoretical and methodological approaches from both fields in order to explore their joint potential for an advancement of the concept of culture for the theoretical conceptualization and methodical completion of comparative cultural studies and the scientific understanding of cultural difference This volume includes contributions by Ernest E Boesch Kenneth J Gergen Rom Harr Gustav Jahoda and Jaan Valsiner History of Education Review ,2006 Clio Sans Uniform Sirkka Ahonen,1992 Studies in Metahistory Jörn Rüsen,1993 Journal of Narrative and Life History ,1993 Sustainable Social Development ,2001
