Narrative Freedom The Shadow Of Time The Shadows Of Time:

Narrative and Freedom Gary Saul Morson, 1994-01-01 In this important and controversial book one of our leading literary theorists presents a major philosophical statement about the meaning of literature and the shape of literary texts Drawing on works by the Russian writers Dostoevsky Tolstoy and Chekhov by other writers as diverse as Sophocles Cervantes and George Eliot by thinkers as varied as William James Mikhail Bakhtin and Stephen Jay Gould and from philosophy the Bible television and much more Gary Saul Morson examines the relation of time to narrative form and to an ethical dimension of the literary experience Morson asserts that the way we think about the world and narrate events is often in contradiction to the truly eventful and open nature of daily life Literature history and the sciences frequently present experience as if contingency chance and the possibility of diverse futures were all illusory As a result people draw conclusions or accept ideologies without sufficiently examining their consequences or alternatives However says Morson there is another way to read and construct texts He explains that most narratives are developed through foreshadowing and backshadowing foreshadowing ascribed after the fact which tend to reduce the multiplicity of possibilities in each moment But other literary works try to convey temporal openness through a device he calls sideshadowing Sideshadowing suggests that to understand an event is to grasp what else might have happened Time is not a line but a shifting set of fields of possibility Morson argues that this view of time and narrative encourages intellectual pluralism helps to liberate us from the false certainties of dogmatism creates a healthy skepticism of present orthodoxies and makes us aware that there are moral choices available to us

Tense Future Paul K. Saint-Amour, 2015 Tense Future falls into two parts The first develops a critical account of total war discourse and addresses the resistant potential of acts including acts of writing before a future that looks barred or predetermined by war Part two shifts the focus to long interwar narratives that pit both their scale and their formal turbulence against total war s portrait of the social totality producing both ripostes and alternatives to that portrait in the practice of literary encyclopedism The book s introduction grounds both parts in the claim that industrialized warfare particularly the aerial bombing of cities intensifies an under examined form of collective traumatization a pretraumatic syndrome in which the anticipation of future conditional violence induces psychic wounds Situating this claim in relation to other scholarship on critical futurities Saint Amour discusses its ramifications for trauma studies historical narratives generally and the historiography of the interwar period in particular The introduction ends with an account of the weak theory of modernism now structuring the field of modernist studies and of weak theory s special suitability for opposing total war that strongest of strong theories The New York Times Book Review, 1994-10 Presents extended reviews of noteworthy books short reviews essays and articles on topics and trends in publishing literature culture and the arts Includes lists of best sellers hardcover and paperback TLS, the Times Literary Supplement, 1995 Race of Time Daniel Chaffee, Samuel Han, 2015-11-17 Charles Lemert is one of the most renowned critics of social theory and theorists today The

Freedom chronicles alternating moments of triumph and tribulation of pride and pain but more than anything it chronicles the resilience of the black community in a particularly difficult urban context at a defining moment in American history
