National Identity Ethnonationalism Comparative Perspective:

National Identity Anthony D. Smith, 1991 National identity is often cited as a contributing factor to many of the world's worst trouble spots for example the troubles in Israel Afghanistan and Bangladesh This book addresses the issue of how national identity differs from racial ethnic and regional identity

Zionism and the Roads Not Taken Noam Pianko, 2010-06-03 Today Zionism is understood as a national movement whose primary historical goal was the establishment of a Jewish state However Zionism's association with national sovereignty was not foreordained Zionism and the Roads Not Taken uncovers the thought of three key interwar Jewish intellectuals who defined Zionism's central mission as challenging the model of a sovereign nation state historian Simon Rawidowicz religious thinker Mordecai Kaplan and political theorist Hans Kohn Although their models differed each of these three thinkers conceived of a more practical and ethical paradigm of national cohesion that was not tied to a sovereign state Recovering these roads not taken helps us to reimagine Jewish identity and collectivity past present and future

The Global Dynamics of Racial and Ethnic Mobilization Susan Olzak, 2006-05-24 This book tests a new approach to understanding ethnic mobilization and considers the interplay of global forces national level variation in inequality and repression and political mobilization of ethnicity It advances the claim that economic and political integration among the world's states increases the influence of ethnic identity in political movements Drawing on a 100 country dataset analyzing ethnic events and rebellions from 1965 to 1998 Olzak shows that to the degree in which a country participates in international social movement organizations ethnic identities in that country become more salient International organizations spread principles of human rights anti discrimination sovereignty and self determination At the local level poverty and restrictions on political rights then channel group demands into ethnic mobilization This study will be of great importance to scholars and policy makers seeking new and powerful explanations for understanding why some conflicts turn violent while others do not

The Mortality and Morality of Nations Uriel Abulof, 2015-07-24 This book answers how mortality and morality figure and intertwine in the life and death of nations both in theory and in practice

Narrating and Teaching the Nation Denise Bentrovato, 2016-02-15 The book investigates the politics of education in pre and post genocide Rwanda examining the actors interests and discourses that have historically influenced educational policy and practice and in particular the production and revision of history curricula and textbooks This study combines a systematic historical and comparative analysis of curricula and textbooks in Rwanda stakeholder interviews classroom observations and a large scale investigation of pupils understandings of the country's history Written at a crucial time of transition in Rwanda it illuminates the role of education as a powerful means of socialisation through which dominant discourses and related belief systems have been transmitted to the younger generations thus moulding the nation It outlines emergent challenges and possibilities urging a move away from the use of history teaching to disseminate a conveniently selective official history towards practices that promote critical thinking and reflect the heterogeneity characteristic of Rwanda's post-genocide society Extra-Territorial Ethnic Politics, Discourses and Identities in Hungary Szabolcs Pogonyi, 2017-07-19 This book explores the causes and consequences of the discursive and legal construction of the Hungarian transborder nation through the institutionalization of non-resident citizenship and voting. Through the in-depth analysis of Hungarian transborder and diaspora politics, this book investigates how the political engagement of non-resident Hungarians impacts inter and intra-state ethnic relations. In addition, the research also explores how institutional changes and shifting discursive strategies reify and redefine ethnic belonging narratives and the self-perception of Hungarians living outside the country. The research uses a multidisciplinary qualitative methodology which includes institutional, historical, rational choice and sociological analysis, discourse analysis as well as interpretive methods. Through the inventive application of multiple methodologies, the book goes beyond the mostly institutional legal analysis dominant in the study of citizenship.

Nation-state and Normative Diversity Nicole Töpperwien, 2001 Ethno-nationalism and Emerging World (dis) Order Gurnam Singh, 2002 Ethnic Dimensions Of Politics And Political Dimensions Of Ethnicity Is An Area In Which Scholarship Has Remained Oblivious For Long. The present volume goes a long way in rectifying this anomaly. Foundations of Corporate Heritage John Balmer, 2017-03-16 Heritage is increasingly recognised as a significant corporate concern with corporate heritage brands and identities often forming an important part of a nation's patrimony. Foundations of Corporate Heritage explains the principles, processes, strategic significance and challenges of corporate heritage formation and management. This scholarly but accessible anthology includes seminal articles on the territory and also includes five new contributions with questions for study and reflection with students on executive taught courses in mind. With contributions from the leading international experts in corporate heritage, this book examines the research foundations of the area and applications in practice. It will be important supplementary reading for students, practitioners and specialists in corporate marketing, brand management and marketing communications as well as tourism, hospitality and heritage studies.

Dampening the Powder Keg Mihaela Mihailescu, 2007 Democratization in Eastern Europe prompted warnings about the risks of the process for the many multi-ethnic countries of the region. Yet the Yugoslav tragedy remains the exception rather than the rule in understanding interethnic relations. This work analyzes post-communist Romania and Slovakia, two multi-ethnic countries that have steered clear of interethnic violence despite the absence of institutions specially designed to manage interethnic relations despite the exclusion of ethnic minorities from government and despite quasi-majoritarian political environments. In the two studied cases, interethnic opposition coalitions resulted from the adoption of basic democratic political institutions which constrained actors across the ethnic divide to cooperate. More broadly, this work questions the notion that multiethnic countries are unlikely candidates for peaceful democratization and suggests that as long as participation in democratic processes either in government or in opposition is possible for ethnic minorities, violent conflict can be averted. The argument is of interest to both scholars of conflict and peace studies and to policy makers.

involved in conflict prevention Ethnonationalism and Political Systems in Europe Martijn A.
