Respiratory Health Effects of Airborne Hazards Exposures in the Southwest Asia Theater of Military Operations National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Committee on the Respiratory Health Effects of Airborne Hazards Exposures in the Southwest Asia Theater of Military Operations, 2020-10-23 More than 3.7 million U.S. service members have participated in operations taking place in the Southwest Asia Theater of Military Operations since 1990. These operations include the 1990-1991 Persian Gulf War, a post-war stabilization period spanning 1992 through September 2001, and the campaigns undertaken in the wake of the September 11, 2001 attacks. Deployment to Iraq, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, Gulf of Aden, Gulf of Oman, Oman, Qatar, the United Arab Emirates, and Afghanistan exposed service members to a number of airborne hazards, including oil well fire smoke, emissions from open burn pits, dust, and sand suspended in the air, and exhaust from diesel vehicles. The effects of these were compounded by stressors like excessive heat and noise that are inevitable attributes of service in a combat environment. Respiratory Health Effects of Airborne Hazards Exposures in the Southwest Asia Theater of Military Operations reviews the scientific evidence regarding respiratory health outcomes in veterans of the Southwest Asia conflicts and identifies research that could feasibly be conducted to address outstanding questions and generate answers to newly emerging technologies that could aid in these efforts. and organizations that the Veterans Administration might partner with to accomplish this work.

American Military Life in the 21st Century Eugenia L. Weiss, Carl Andrew Castro, 2018-11-16

A comprehensive guide to the lives and experiences of military service members, veterans, and their families in the United States today, with special emphasis given to those of the post-9/11 era. This reference work provides detailed information on the issues U.S. service members face both stateside and during deployments overseas. Issues covered include relations with family, substance use, housing, educational and job training opportunities, post-traumatic stress disorder, and other health issues, and experiences of women, sexual minorities, and ethnic/racial minorities in the armed services. This set also examines major issues related to military service for people close to the men and women who serve our country, such as spouses or partners, children, and parents, grappling with such issues as single parenthood during deployment and bereavement at the loss of a loved one. Finally, this set is a valuable resource for people seeking a greater understanding of the issues that confront some military service members and veterans, from chronic health problems to economic vulnerability to suicide to incarceration. The two volumes are written in a comprehensive yet succinct and accessible style by experts familiar with the latest trends and findings.

Asia-Pacific Rebalance 2025 Michael Green, Kathleen Hicks, Mark F. Cancian, 2016-02-04

In 2015, Congress tasked the Department of Defense to commission an independent assessment of U.S. military strategy and force posture in the Asia Pacific, as well as that of U.S. allies and partners over the next decade. This CSIS study fulfills that congressional requirement. The authors assess U.S. progress to date and recommend initiatives necessary to protect U.S.

interests in the Pacific Command area of responsibility through 2025 Four lines of effort are highlighted 1 Washington needs to continue aligning Asia strategy within the U S government and with allies and partners 2 U S leaders should accelerate efforts to strengthen ally and partner capability capacity resilience and interoperability 3 the United States should sustain and expand U S military presence in the Asia Pacific region and 4 the United States should accelerate development of innovative capabilities and concepts for U S forces American Defense Policy Miriam Krieger,Lynne Chandler

Esther Brimmer,2008 The Five Dimensions of Homeland and International Security project set out to understand better the intersections between homeland and international security and the implications of these connections for preparedness For decades strategists endeavored to develop theories that helped policy makers safeguard vital national interest during Cold War The post 9 11 world raises the specter of violent non state actors able to inflict mass casualties even on the most powerful country in the world Hurricane Katrina reminded us of the violence of nature that can also have a devastating impact on the nation This project considered whether some national security concepts can help orient homeland security thinking to promote preparedness The objective is to enhance the security of our society by being prepared to address a range of challenges The project explored the applicability of 5Ds deterrence denial dissuasion defense and diplomacy The goal was not to slavishly apply traditional concepts but to seek a nugget of insight from each to help forge new effective ways to support preparedness In the immediate aftermath of 9 11 policymakers attention focused on securing the homeland however we suggest that shaping the international environment can enhance or detract from homeland security International security concepts may provide ways to influence the international environment that makes preparedness more effective at home
