Object, Image, Inquiry Elizabeth Bakewell, William O. Beeman, Carol McMichael Reese, Marilyn Schmitt, 1988 Cataloging Cultural Objects Murtha Baca, 2006-06-12

In a visual and artifact filled world cataloging one of a kind cultural objects without published guidelines and standards has been a challenge. Now for the first time under the leadership of the Visual Resources Association a cross section of five visual and cultural heritage experts along with scores of reviewers from varied institutions have created a new data content standard focused on cultural materials. This cutting edge reference offers practical resources for cataloging and flexibility to meet the needs of a wide range of institutions from libraries to museums to archives. Consistently following these guidelines for selecting, ordering and formatting data used to populate metadata elements in cultural materials catalog records. Promotes good descriptive cataloging and reduces redundancy. Builds a foundation of shared documentation. Creates data sharing opportunities. Enhances end user access across institutional boundaries. Complements existing standards AACR. This is a must have reference for museum professionals, visual resources curators, archivists, librarians and anyone who documents cultural objects including architecture, paintings, sculpture, prints, manuscripts, photographs, visual media, performance art, archaeological sites and artifacts and their images.

Introduction to Art Image Access Murtha Baca, 2002-07-25 With the proliferation of information on the World Wide Web and in other networked environments one of the main things that users search for are images of works of art and architecture. End users generally try to search for images by subject a process that often proves unsatisfactory and frustrating. Cataloging images of works of art has always been challenging but now that end users need only have access to the Internet the challenge is more daunting than ever. This illustrated book on using metadata standards and controlled vocabularies to catalog and provide accurate end user access to images of works of art also focuses on decisions that must be made about the arrangement of visual records, descriptive principles and methodologies and requirements for access. Introduction to Art Image Access addresses the issues that underlie a visual collection to make it accessible in an electronic environment. A glossary, selected bibliography and list of acronyms and URLs are included.

Vermeer's Wager Ivan Gaskell, 2000-10 Vermeer's Wager stands at the intersection of art history and criticism, philosophy and museology. Using a familiar and celebrated painting by Johannes Vermeer as a case study, Ivan Gaskell explores what it might mean to know and use a work of art. He argues that art history as generally practiced while successfully asserting certain claims to knowledge fails to take into account aspects of the unique character of works of art.

Our relationship to art is mediated not only through reproduction particularly photography but also through displays in museums In an analysis that ranges from seventeenth century Holland through mid nineteenth century France to artists and curators practice today Gaskell draws on his experience of Dutch art history philosophy and contemporary art criticism

Anyone with an interest in Vermeer and the afterlife of his art will value this book as will all who think seriously about the role of photography in perception and the core purposes of art museums

Past Looking Michael Ann Holly,2018-09-05

Michael Ann Holly asserts that historical interpretation of the pictorial arts is always the intellectual product of a dynamic exchange between past and present Recent theory emphasizes the subjectivity of the historian and the ways in which any interpretation betrays the presence of an interpreter In Past Looking she challenges that view arguing that historical objects of representational art are actively engaged in prefiguring the kinds of histories that can be written about them Holly directs her attention to early modern works of visual art and their rhetorical roles in legislating the kind of tales told about them by a few classic cultural commentaries of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Burckhardt's synchronic vision of the Italian Renaissance Wifflin's exemplification of the Baroque Schapiro's and Freud's dispute over the meanings of Leonardo's art and Panofsky's exegesis of the disguised symbolism of Northern Renaissance painting

Digital Image Collections Michael Ester,Commission on Preservation and Access,1996 The Commission on Preservation and Access has published a number of reports on the preservation and access implications of scanning text and microfilm This report focuses on what sets the digitization of visual collections apart from other scanning projects Projects to digitize visual collections present their own unique set of questions and concerns as well as issues that overlap with digital capture of text. The report provides basic suggestions about planning digitization projects, practical guidelines for working with images and some final thoughts about the future systems and infrastructure needed to provide collections of images over the long term. To use digitization as a tool to provide worthwhile enduring access to treasured cultural and historical resources one must become informed, establish guidelines and proceed in rational, measured steps to assure that such reformatting of visual matter is accomplished as well and as cost effectively as possible. The paper includes the following sections: 1. Introduction: Digital Images as a Reproduction Medium and Of Letters, Lines and Images Reproductions in Print Publications; 2. The Original Object and Its Reproduction; 3. A Framework for Assessing Image Quality; 4. This volume addresses questions of canon value, historiographical interest and large scale historical structures as they apply to Chinese art history in the context of postcolonial studies. As the field of Chinese art history moves into postcolonial studies, institutional critique and economic and social contextualization, it is especially important that questions of canon value, historiographical interest and large scale historical structures not be left behind. The aim of this book is to examine critically the historiography of the field of Chinese painting to assess what achievements have been made and to understand what and how personal backgrounds of scholars and institutional constraints may have affected various practices in the field. This volume is a comprehensive and critically self-aware introduction to the history of Chinese art historiography in America and includes reflections on more general issues of the encounters between East and West.
