

No Worst, There Is None

*No worst, there is none. Pitched past pitch of grief,
More pangs will, schooled at forepangs, wilder wring.
Comforter, where, where is your comforting?
Mary, mother of us, where is your relief?
My cries heave, herds-long; huddle in a main, a chief-\- Woe, w{ 'o }rld-sorrow; on an { 'a }ge-old { 'a }nvil w{ 'i }nce and s{ 'i }ng --*

Then lull, then leave off. Fury had shrieked "No ling-Ering! Let me be fell: force I must be brief."

*O the mind, mind has mountains; cliffs of fall
Frightful, sheer, no-man-fathomed. Hold them cheap
May who ne'er hung there. Nor does long our small Durance deal with that steep or deep. Here! creep, Wretch, under a comfort serves in a whirlwind: all Life death does end and each day dies with sleep.*

Gerard Manley Hopkins

No Worst There Is None

Leo M. van Noppen

No Worst There Is None:

No Worst, There Is None Eve McBride, 2014-10-10 Inspired by true events and in the extravagant mid eighties A privileged urban family's eleven year old daughter is murdered by a sexual predator throwing the survivors into an intimate exploration of grief and the different ways individuals survive it "No Worst, There is None," by Gerard Manley Hopkins Jack R. Harding, 1985 In spite of all the efforts of critics and artist critics from the time of Aristotle to today to define what poetry is what it ought to be and how it does whatever it does to its readers we still do not know what we are talking about when we talk about poetry We have come a long way down the road which leads to knowing what we are talking about but that is the extent of the boast we can make The end of the road if indeed there is an end still cannot be seen In this light I A Richards notion that we cannot trust any theory of poetry which is not so intricate that it cannot be applied makes perfect sense Poetry is an intricate web composed of necessary and inextricable fibers These fibers may themselves be made from numerous undefinable filaments In this study I attempt to progress a little farther down that road which leads toward knowledge about poetry In this study two inextricable fibers meter and meaning and their relationship are examined The history of criticism of the literature of Hopkins is a clamorous cry of confusion Talented critics hold opposite points of view as they wrestle with the often strained and tense poetry Hopkins has given us Because of his unique and powerful poetry Hopkins has risen from obscurity to become firmly established in the English poetic tradition Tradition itself has been dramatically altered by the poetry of Hopkins He is a rare poet whose creative experiential poems have caused a plethora of controversial criticism Such criticism is testimony to the full and complex nature of his poetry Such poetry is surely well worth studying in and for itself and for what it says to us about the nature of all poetry and the nature of man No worst there is none one of the terrible posthumous sonnets written between 1885 and 1889 is an example of Hopkins at his best In this sonnet technique and powerful emotion are mixed precisely into an admixture which creates as profound an experience as any literature can create Criticism of No worst like criticism of Hopkins work in general is lively with disagreement In these fourteen lines all the skill and cunning of sophisticated critics are tested In these fourteen lines readers are tempest tossed through a complete dramatic event which leaves them breathless bewildered and different somehow No worst there is none because of how all its poetic fibers are so intimately integrated is an archetype of the Petrarchan sonnet Before it is anything else poetry is a feeling experience It is something as basic as blood it runs rhythmically under our skin it beats in our breasts like our hearts we feel its sense in its sound before we know what it means Its commonness of experience speaks to us when no common symbols exist to do so Among the strategies of pedantic critics must be as an a priori element the act of interpretation If we do not interpret before we criticize we cannot be certain that what we have to say about a poem has any relationship to what the author meant the poem to mean We come to know what the author means by listening to the sounds he makes both the qualitative and the quantitative aspects of that sound Hopkins is a skillful technician who purposefully uses rhythmic sound to make his poetry say what he wants it to say He marries meter to meaning perfectly to create his message Scanning No worst enlightens us to the basic structure which underlies the dramatic effect of the whole poem In this structure meter and meaning are found to be if not the same thing inextricably united Scansions based on different points of view and from varied backgrounds of experience and maturity uncover the same basic structure This structure provides the constant which simplifies the complex event which helps settle disputes about meaning in the poem No worst there is none is the consummate marriage of meter and meaning It is a poem of praise and celebration In its lines we find the vindication of the meaningfulness of human life In it we find an aspect of our complicated selves After all we too are composed of necessary and inextricable fibers Document A Critical Commentary on Gerard Manley Hopkins's
