Reading Test Review

Day 4

Margaret had never been a talker, but she sat by the edge of the tent, morosely silent, staring at her hands. It was her face that advertised how she felt. Her lips were shapeless, and her eyes were round and motionless like pebbles thrown against a shore. If not voluntary, she had walked alongside the covered wagon for miles and had not said a word despite the calluses that wedged her toes and the pain that rose from her heel to the lower part of her leg. Margaret was not the only one. Both Mr. and Mrs. Brandon bore lowered countenances and although they had been hefty talkers at the beginning of the journey, they said few words now. Jefferson had been buried days earlier after suffering unmercifully at the hands of cholera for weeks. His body laid along the path in a shallow trail just deep enough not to be bothered by animals. Margaret's husband William chopped eagerly at a felled tree as splinters gathered in a gust and then formed small piles in the grass. He was slow-going, easy-natured, and flashed yellow teeth from which one was missing near the front.

"After our meal, we can continue moving. By best estimate, we should meet the halfway mark by sundown tomorrow," said William.

Margaret continued to look at her hands. Her eyes followed the pattern of veins that formed a stream from her fingers down to her wrist. Mr. Brandon spoke. "We have tried as best as we can, but I think we should return home." The words spilled out of his mouth.

That is when William did something he had done many times before. He spoke of the opportunities that awaited them all ahead and about legacy. He spoke about hope. He spoke about challenges.
