Morocco , 2001 Spain Unmoored Mikaela H. Rogozen-Soltar, 2017-02-27 Long viewed as Spain s most Moorish city Granada is now home to a growing Muslim population of Moroccan migrants and European converts to Islam Mikaela H Rogozen Soltar examines how various residents of Granada mobilize historical narratives about the city s Muslim past in order to navigate tensions surrounding contemporary ethnic and religious pluralism Focusing particular attention on the gendered racial and political dimensions of this new multiculturalism Rogozen Soltar explores how Muslim themed tourism and Islamic cultural institutions coexist with anti Muslim sentiments Migration, Settlement, and the Concepts of House and Home Iris Levin, 2015-11-19 How do migrants feel at home in their houses Literature on the migrant house and its role in the migrant experience of home building is inadequate This book offers a theoretical framework based on the notion of home building and the concepts of home and house embedded within it. It presents innovative research on four groups of migrants who have settled in two metropolitan cities in two periods: migrants from Italy migrated in the 1950s and 1960s and from mainland China migrated in the 1990s and 2000s in Melbourne, Australia; and migrants from Morocco migrated in the 1950s and 1960s and from the former Soviet Union migrated in the 1990s and 2000s in Tel Aviv, Israel. The analysis draws on qualitative data gathered from forty-six in-depth interviews with migrants in their home environments including extensive visual data. Levin argues that the physical form of the house is meaningful in a range of diverse ways during the process of home building and that each migrant group constructs a distinct form of home building in their homes. Houses according to their specific circumstances of migration: namely the origin country, country of destination and period of migration as well as the historical, economic and social contexts around migration.

New Sacred Architecture Phyllis Richardson, 2004. This timely book reflects an awakening of interest in religious faiths and the emergence of a global exchange of architecture and culture. While Spain's Rafael Moneo has recently completed a cathedral in Los Angeles, Britain's Thomas Heatherwick is designing a Buddhist temple in Japan, John Pawson is working on a Cistercian monastery in the Czech Republic, and Richard Meier has completed his Jubilee Church in Rome. It seems as if one wallpaper-registered pundit commented: religion is getting a redesign and the architect's faith is as unimportant as his or her nationality. I am looking at ways in which contemporary architects are approaching religious or meditative space. This book focuses on churches, chapels, temples, synagogues and mosques that have been built in the last few years and that represent a late twentieth/early twenty-first century aesthetic.

New Spiritual Architecture Phyllis Richardson, 2004. New Spiritual Architecture looks at ways in which contemporary architects are approaching religious or meditative space. The book focuses on churches, chapels, temples, synagogues and mosques that have been built in the last few years and that represent a late twentieth/early twenty-first century aesthetic. These buildings demonstrate how new ideas and developments in urban, domestic and public architecture are being used to inform design that is intended for inspiration, worship or meditation. The text discusses the ways in which architects manipulate light and space and considers the placement of these buildings in their surroundings. Following a brief introduction, the book explores the following five themes: New Traditions, Interventions, Retreats, Grand Icons and Modest
