TO Mrs. Hitchins, Rose's Diner

28/10/20

Dear Mrs. Hitchins,

As an establishment with four direct competitors within five minutes' walk, I understand that you need a Restaurant Manager with the ability to provide an efficient and enjoyable front of house dining experience as well as ensure that culinary standards are impeccable.

Three generations of my family have been involved with Italian cuisine. Having served as manager at my cousin's establishment, and after his decision to sell the business, I want to move to a more established chain. The possibility of later moving up to Regional Manager is intriguing and I believe that I have much to offer your customers.

I completed my Batchelor's Degree in Hospitality and Hotel Management from the University of Colorado, spending two years after graduation in Rome under the tutelage of my Uncle (who runs a five-star bistro there). My eight years of experience since have been in two family-run restaurants that have regularly won industry awards.

I seek to give maximum attention on everything that impacts the diner experience: fostering relationships with regular diners, supervising server training, customer complaints and even waiting tables when we were short staffed. Managers in an Italian restaurant should be visible and involved. The customer satisfaction rating of 98% at my previous position rose from 85% when I started in the role. We increased spend per customer by 28% by upscaling the menu and improved profits by focusing on our cost base and reducing waste, whilst still paying the best staff salaries in the market.

My proactive nature and deep knowledge of Italian cuisine allows me to get involved in the kitchen and I strive to have the closest possible relationships with my chefs to source the best possible ingredients and lead the way in providing a delicious menu. With 36% repeat custom and an active social media presence, I left the business in great shape for its sale.

I would be fascinated to understand how I might be able to do similar things for 'Via Verona' - both as a Manager and potentially later on a regional basis.

Sincerely,

Gerri Smith
