Nations And Identities Classic Readings:

Nations and Identities Vincent P. Pecora, 2001-02-08 This anthology brings together selections from some of the most significant writings on the idea of national identity over the last 400 years and includes important contributions to contemporary debates in the social sciences and postcolonial studies

Situating Strangeness: Exploring the Intersections between Bodies and Borders Vanessa Longden, 2019-07-22 This volume was first published by Interdisciplinary Press in 2016 Zygmunt Bauman in his publication Liquid Modernity described the meeting of strangers as a mismeeting a brief encounter which had no past and the unlikely possibility of a future This suggests a meeting which is free from expectation but it also has the potential to fuel alienation and displacement Being a stranger is not synonymous with distant geographies or borderlands though it does include them strangers and peculiar places can be found closer to home Themes of alienation strangeness and foreignness converge in the following accounts The reader will migrate through unrecognisable narratives coming into contact with diasporic identities stand up comedians English Language Educators artists and photographers to mention a few These accounts are diverse but commonalities are tangled between webs of thought Readers are invited to tug at the threads of this web to find their own connections and chance upon unexpected revelations which come through picking the ends

The Nation on Screen Enric Castelló, Alexander Dhoest, 2020-07-24 But we can still rise now runs a line of Scotland's unofficial national anthem Flower of Scotland and be the nation again who defeated the English King Edward II in 1314 at the Battle of Bannockburn These short lines tell us much about the concept of the nation Firstly the pronoun of the nation is we Secondly nationhood remains aspirational for some while it is entirely taken for granted for others Thirdly nations often trace their origins back to an implausibly dim and distant past Finally it points to the fundamentally discursive nature of the nation the nation appears not as something which simply is but as something which can be called into existence through talk official documents official and unofficial national anthems ceremonies and parades monuments and statuary press coverage and increasingly television This book which arose out of a conference held in Tarragona in 2007 focuses on the complex discourses of the nation to be found in the television systems of twelve different countries examining how these circulate in fiction in news and documentary including re enactment formats and in entertainment programmes adverts and the coverage of large scale sporting events The nation which emerges is everywhere and nowhere talked about endlessly but never finally grasped repeatedly staged and re enacted but lacking a foundational script In short it is a site of struggle The stakes are high since the nation when mobilised is a force to be reckoned with and the on going attempts to define it are many varied and often highly creative This book details many such events from the high drama of war reporting to the self mocking irony of ten second commercial spots

New Media in New Europe-Asia Jeremy Morris, Natalya Rulyova, Vlad Strukov, 2016-04-14 This volume offers an in depth investigation of the role of new media in the political social and cultural life in the region of Europe Asia By focusing on new media which is understood primarily as internet enabled networked social practice the book puts forward a political and cultural redefinition of the region which is determined by the recognition of the diversity of new media uses in the countries included in the study This book focuses on the period prior to the advent of world internet revolutions and it registers the region at its pivotal moment at the time of its entry into the post broadcast era Does the Internet aid democratisation or is it conditioned by socio political norms Has the Internet changed politics or has it had to fit existing political structures Has the use of digital technologies revolutionized election campaigns How is hyperlinked society different from society prior to the advent of the web How do ordinary people actually use the Internet These and other pressing questions crucial to understanding the post socialist world are investigated in the current volume This book was published as a special issue of Europe Asia Studies

Reading the World Ann Morgan, 2015-02-05 A brilliant unlikely book Spectator How can we celebrate challenge and change our remarkable world In 2012 the world arrived in London for the Olympics and Ann Morgan went out to meet it She read her way around all the globe's 196 independent countries plus one extra sampling one book from every nation It wasn't easy Many languages have next to nothing translated into English there are tiny tucked away places where very little is written down some governments don't like to let works of art escape their borders Using Morgan's own quest as a starting point Reading the World explores the vital questions of our time and how reading across borders might just help us answer them Revelatory While Morgan's research has a daunting range there is a simple message reading is a social activity and we ought to share books across boundaries Financial Times

Postcolonial Gateways and Walls Daria Tunca, Janet Wilson, 2016-11-07 Metaphors are ubiquitously used in the humanities to bring the tangibility of the concrete world to the elaboration of abstract thought Drawing on this cognitive function of metaphors this collection of essays focuses on the evocative figures of the gateway and the wall to reflect on the state of postcolonial studies Some chapters on such topics as maze making in Canada and the Berlin Wall in the writings of New Zealand authors foreground the modes of articulation between literal borders and emotional disconnections while others examine how artefacts ranging from personal letters to clothes may be conceptualized as metaphorical gateways and walls that lead or conversely regulate access to specific forms of cultural expression and knowledge Following this line of metaphorical thought postcolonial studies itself may be said to function as either barrier or pathway to further modes of enquiry This much is suggested by two complementary sets of contributions on the one hand those that contend that the canonical centre periphery paradigm and the related writing back model have prevented scholars from recognizing the depth and magnitude of cross cultural influences between civilizations on the other those that argue that the scope of traditional postcolonial models may be fruitfully widened to include territories such as post imperial Turkey a geographical and cultural gateway between East and West that features in several of the essays included in this collection Ultimately all of the contributions testify to the fact that postcolonial studies is a field whose borders must be constantly redrawn and whose paradigms need to be continually reshaped and rebuilt to remain relevant in the contemporary world in other words the collection s varied approaches suggest that the discipline itself is permanently under construction Readers are therefore invited to perform a critical inspection of the postcolonial construction site

Ethnopolitics in Cyberspace Robert A. Saunders,2010-12-28 Defying predictions that the Internet would eventually create a world where nations disappeared in favor of a unified global village the new millennium has instead seen a proliferation of nationalism on the Web Cyberspace a vast digital terrain built upon interwoven congeries of data and sustained through countless public private communication networks has even begun to alter the very fabric of national identity This is particularly true among stateless nations diasporic groups and national minorities which have fashioned the Internet into a shield against the assimilating efforts of their countries of residence As a deterritorialized medium that allows both selective consumption and inexpensive production of news and information the Internet has endowed a new generation of technology savvy elites with a level of influence that would have been impossible to obtain a decade ago Challenged nations from Assyrians to Zapotecs have used the Web to rewrite history engage in political activism and reinvigorate moribund languages This book explores the role of the Internet in shaping ethnopolitics and sustaining national identity among four different national groups Albanians outside of Albania Russians in the near abroad Roma Gypsies and European Muslims Accompanying these case studies are briefer discussions of dozens of other online national movements as well as the ramifications of Internet nationalism for offline domestic and global politics The author discusses how the Internet provides new tools for maintaining national identity and improves older techniques of nationalist resistance for minorities Bringing together research and methodologies from a range of fields Saunders fills a gap in the social science literature on the Internet s central role in influencing nationalism in the twenty first century By creating new spaces for political discourse alternative avenues for cultural production and novel means of social organization the Web is remaking what it means to be part of nation This insightful study provides a glimpse of this exciting and sometimes disturbing new landscape

Yeow,2009 This book traces the dialogic relation between Conrad s Eastern fiction and other histories and argues that it is precisely in the intersections of art and history that we locate Conrad s irony The dialogism of Conrad s East resists any finalising meaning and its loophole lies in subjective vision In a direct response to the visual culture of his times Conrad sets up his fictional world as a hallucinated mirage even as he stresses the veracity of his own Eastern vision Cradle of Liberty Caroline Levander,2006-10-25 Argues that from the late eighteenth century through the early twentieth American literary and political texts used the figure of the child to represent U S national belonging The Journal of Parliamentary Information ,2001 Hemispheric American Studies Caroline Field Levander,Robert Steven Levine,2008 Annotation The book seeks to excavate the complex cultural history of texts and discourses across the ever changing and stratified geopolitical and cultural fields that collectively comprise the American hemisphere Kultura i społeczeństwo ,2004 The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,2007 The Writers Directory ,2013
