Redmon,2022-08-24 Rewatching on the Point of the Cinematic Index offers a reassessment of the cinematic index as it sits at the intersection of film studies trauma studies and adaptation studies Author Allen H Redmon argues that far too often scholars imagine the cinematic index to be nothing more than an acknowledgment that the lens based camera captures and brings to the screen a reality that existed before the camera When cinema s indexicality is so narrowly defined the entire nature of film is called into question the moment film no longer relies on a lens based camera The presence of digital technologies seemingly strips cinema of its indexical standing This volume pushes for a broader understanding of the cinematic index by returning to the early discussions of the index in film studies and the more recent discussions of the index in other digital arts Bolstered by the insights these discussions can offer the volume looks to replace what might be best deemed a diminished concept of the cinematic index with a series of more complex cinematic indices the impoverished index the indefinite index the intertextual index and the imaginative index The central argument of this book is that these more complex indices encourage spectators to enter a process of ongoing adaptation of the reality they see on the screen and that it is on the point of these indices that the most significant instances of rewatching movies occur Examining such films as John Lee Hancock's Saving Mr Banks 2013 Richard Linklater's oeuvre Paul Greengrass's United 93 2006 Oliver Stone's World Trade Center 2006 Stephen Daldry's Extremely Loud and Incredibly Close 2011 and Christopher Nolan's Dunkirk 2017 Inception 2010 and Memento 2000 Redmon demonstrates that the cinematic index invites spectators to enter a process of ongoing adaptation
