Narrative Text Structure For Kids:

How to Reach and Teach All Children Through Balanced Literacy Sandra F. Rief, Julie A. Heimburge, 2007-08-17 How to Reach and Teach All Children Through Balanced Literacy offers you a handbook for teaching literacy to diverse students in grades 3-8. The balanced literacy method combines the best practices of phonics and other skill-based language instruction with the holistic literature-based approach in order to help you teach reading, writing, and speaking in a clear and approachable format. This dynamic resource offers an easily accessible research-based approach to balanced literacy that is grounded in the innovative ideas developed by authors Sandra F. Rief and Julie A. Heimburge. The book includes detailed descriptions of what a balanced literacy classroom looks like and shows how to create a program from the ground up or give your existing program a boost. The book can be used across content areas and is filled with reproducible worksheets, activities, and other handy classroom tools. Some topics covered include: Shared book experiences, Reading aloud, Oral language and vocabulary development, Guided reading for comprehension, Modeled writing, Reading and writing conferences, Book clubs, Content area reading and writing, Ongoing assessments, Enhancing literacy through technology. Awesome Hands-on Activities for Teaching Literary Elements Susan Van Zile, 2001 Setting Pop-ups, Paper Chain Characters, Plot Mini Books, and more to help students learn by doing. Includes reproducible student direction sheets and rubrics. Exploring the Literature of Fact Barbara Moss, 2003-01-01 Filling a crucial need for K-6 teachers, this book provides practical strategies for using nonfiction trade books in language arts and content area instruction. Research-based, classroom-tested ideas are spelled out to help teachers select from among the many wonderful nonfiction trade books available. Incorporate nonfiction into the classroom. Work with students to develop comprehension strategies for informational texts. Elicit responses to nonfiction through drama, writing, and discussion. Use nonfiction to promote content area learning and research skills. Unique features of the book include teacher-created lesson plans, extensive lists of recommended books, including choices for reluctant readers, illustrative examples of student work, and suggestions for linking nonfiction reading to the use of the World Wide Web. Teaching Early Literacy Diane M. Barone, Marla H. Mallette, Shelley Hong Xu, 2017-02-13 Grounded in cutting-edge theory and research about literacy development, this book is filled with practical assessment and instructional ideas for teachers of pre-K through grade 3. Engaging vignettes show how everyday conversations and activities offer rich opportunities both for evaluating children's current level of knowledge and for helping them progress toward more sophisticated and rewarding interactions with reading and writing. Throughout the book, highlights ways to work effectively with English language learners and their families, a theme that is the exclusive focus of two chapters. Other timely topics covered include creative uses of technology and ways to incorporate popular culture into the classroom. Over two dozen reproducible assessment tools and handouts enhance the utility of this volume as an instructional resource, professional development tool, or graduate-level text. Close Reading of Informational Texts Sunday Cummins, 2012-11-27 This essential book provides a roadmap for instruction and assessment of close reading skills in grades 3-8. To engage deeply with informational texts, a key requirement of the Common Core standards, students need to determine what details are important, how they fit together to convey a central idea, and how to synthesize information from multiple sources. They also need to understand the unique demands of different text features and structures. Presenting effective instructional strategies that teachers can tailor to their own classrooms, the book includes lesson plans, vignettes, and examples of student work, plus a Study Guide with professional learning activities and discussion questions.

Children's Comprehension of Text K. Denise Muth, 1989. Reflecting the concerns of researchers and practitioners about children's text comprehension, this book defines and provides examples of narrative and expository text and describes research-based strategies for helping children comprehend these two types of text. The book contains the following chapters:

1. Research on Stories: Implications for Teachers. Jill Fitzgerald
2. Using Story Retelling to Develop Comprehension. Lesley Mandel Morrow
3. Teaching Repetition as a Story Structure. Gail E. Tompkins and Lea M. McGee
4. Teaching Narrative Text Structure: A Process Approach to Reading and Writing. Christine J. Gordon
5. Using a Literary Framework to Teach Mysteries. Charles W. Peters and Marilyn Carlsen
6. Research on Expository Text: Implications for Teachers. Wayne H. Slater and Michael F. Graves
7. Teaching Expository Text Structure in Reading and Writing. Donald J. Richgels and others
8. The Teaching with Analogies Model. Shawn M. Glynn
9. The Know-Want-to-Learn Strategy. Donna M. Ogle
10. Getting the Gist of Expository Text. Ted Schuder and others
11. The Comprehension Experience. James H. Mosenthal and
12. Questions and Concerns about Teaching Narrative and Expository Text. Joan Nelson Herber and Carolyn S. Johnston

Each chapter lists references.

MS When Kids Can't Read, what Teachers Can Do G. Kylene Beers, 2003. For Kylene Beers, the question of what to do when kids can't read surfaced in 1979 when she met and began teaching a boy named George. When George's parents asked her to explain why he couldn't read and how she could help, Beers, a secondary-certified English teacher with no background in reading, realized she had little to offer. That moment sent her on a twenty-three-year search for answers to the question: How do we help middle and high schoolers who can't read? Now she shares what she has learned and shows teachers how to help struggling readers with comprehension, vocabulary, fluency, word recognition, and motivation. Filled with student transcripts, detailed strategies, reproducible material, and extensive booklists, Beers' guide to teaching reading both instructs and inspires.

To Understand Ellin Oliver Keene, 2008. To Understand proposes a model that incorporates all aspects of literacy instruction and describes how teachers can focus on what matters most. Keene shows that when teachers target the most essential content, they can help every student engage more deeply with texts and discover a passion for reading and learning. You'll learn to draw out students' intellectual interests and spark improvements in their literacy learning and comprehension, even among students who struggle. You'll see that teaching the Outcomes and Dimensions of Understanding can help readers exceed expectations and also help broaden your vision of their capacity and energy for learning.

Creating Reading Instruction for All Children Thomas G. Gunning, 1996 This book will not tell you how to teach reading Teaching reading is in large measure a matter of making choices Should you use basal readers or children's books or both Should you teach children to read whole words or to sound out words letter by letter or both Should you have three reading groups or four or no groups There are no right answers to these questions The answers depend on your personal philosophy your interpretation of the research the level at which you are teaching the kinds of students you are teaching community preferences and the nature of your school or school district's reading program

Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts ,2009

Creating Literacy Instruction for All Children Thomas G. Gunning, 2000 Creating Literacy Instruction for All Children is a comprehensive practical text that provides its readers with step by step guidance for teaching all major aspects of reading and writing Gunning's text helps students discover approaches and techniques that fit teachers' personal styles and situations It aims to present as fairly completely and clearly as possible the major methods and strategies shown to be successful in research and practice The text features sample lessons for virtually every major literacy skill strategy and offers numerous reinforcement suggestions and generous listings of materials With two updated chapters on word analysis skills strategies the text continues to give teachers the information and techniques they need to implement a systematic and functional program of word analysis that is integrated with students reading and writing The text also presents the theory behind the methods so students will be free to choose adapt and or construct their own approaches as they create literacy instruction This edition endorses the viewpoint that a well prepared classroom teacher is capable of effectively instructing most struggling readers and writers
