Older Adult Led Health Promotion In Urban Communities Models And Interventions:

Older Adult-Led Health Promotion in Urban Communities Melvin Delgado, 2008-12-16 The subject of how best to address the current and future health needs of older adult residents in this country's urban marginalized communities is one that has also received considerable attention in academic policy and practice arenas in the past decade. A variety of models have been put forth to achieve the goal of health in these communities but one of the most promising recommendations has been the use of health promotion as a vehicle for reaching and empowering communities of color in both rural and urban America. Older adult led interventions as addressed in various sections of this book is one of the latest and most promising approaches towards health promotion that is grass roots and community participatory based. Older adult led health promotion represents an emerging field with tremendous implications for addressing the health needs of marginalized urban older adults in the United States and international.

Economics and Ageing José Luis Iparraguirre, 2018-12-05 This upper level textbook provides a coherent introduction to the economic implications of individual and population ageing. Placing economic considerations into a wider social sciences context this is ideal reading not only for advanced undergraduate and masters students in economics, health economics and the economics of ageing but also policy makers, students, professionals and practitioners in gerontology, sociology, health related sciences and social care. This volume discusses the fiscal implications of ageing, health economics and long term care. Fiscal policy issues include generational accounting and national transfer accounts, the relationship between ageing, public expenditure and fiscal policy, the age profiles of public expenditures and taxes and the relationship between ageing, capital and labour taxation. Health economics with regard to ageing comprises healthy and disability free life expectancy, the relationship between health inequalities and age, the macroeconomic implications of population health, the socio-economic determinants of health, the interaction between ageing and both individual and aggregate health expenditure and economic approaches to valuing later life. This volume closes with an exposition of the economics of formal and informal care as well as questions around insurance risk and the so called sandwich generation.

Countryside Connections Catherine Hagan, Hennessy, Robin Means, Vanessa Burholt, 2014 The first project based book in the New Dynamics of Ageing series offers a unique interdisciplinary perspective on older people's role as assets in rural civic society. The authors examine the ways in which rural elders are connected to community, the contributions they make and the groups to which they belong.

Women and Positive Aging Lisa Hollis-Sawyer, Amanda Dykema-Engblade, 2016-03-03 Women and Positive Aging: An International Perspective presents the noted research in the fields of psychology, gerontology and gender studies reflecting the increasingly popular and pervasive positive aging issues of women in today's society from different cohorts, backgrounds and life situations. Each section describes a bridge between the theoretical aspects and practical applications of the theory that is consistent with the scientist-practitioner training model in psychology, including case studies and associated intervention strategies with older women in each chapter. In addition to incorporating current research on aging women's issues each section provides the reader with background about the topic to give context and perspective Examines a comprehensive range of issues for aging women Details current research trends Encompasses a holistic model of women's aging Ranges from physical and mental health in response to aging changes to social relationships and sexuality Presents a how to put research into practice section in each chapter Focuses on topical issues that are relevant to women wanting to optimize their life outcomes as they live on average longer than ever before
