Is Military Research Hazardous to Veterans' Health? United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Veterans' Affairs, 1995    Is Military Research Hazardous to Veterans' Health? Lessons Spanning Half a Century, 1994 During the last 50 years hundreds of thousands of military personnel have been involved in human experimentation and other intentional exposures conducted by the Department of Defense DOD often without a servicemember's knowledge or consent. In some cases soldiers who consented to serve as human subjects found themselves participating in experiments quite different from those described at the time they volunteered. For example thousands of World War II veterans who originally volunteered to test summer clothing in exchange for extra leave time found themselves in gas chambers testing the effects of mustard gas and lewisite. Additionally soldiers were sometimes ordered by commanding officers to volunteer to participate in research or face dire consequences. For example several Persian Gulf War veterans interviewed by Committee staff reported that they were ordered to take experimental vaccines during Operation Desert Shield or face prison. The goals of many of the military experiments and exposures were very appropriate. For example some experiments were intended to provide important information about how to protect U.S. troops from nuclear biological and chemical weapons or other dangerous substances during wartime. In the Persian Gulf War U.S. troops were intentionally exposed to an investigational vaccine that was intended to protect them against biological warfare and they were given pyridostigmine bromide pills in an experimental protocol intended to protect them against chemical warfare.    Is Military Research Hazardous to Veterans' Health? Attachments to War Jennifer Terry, 2017-10-19 In Attachments to War Jennifer Terry traces how biomedical logics entangle Americans in a perpetual state of war. Focusing on the Afghanistan and Iraq wars between

2002 and 2014 Terry identifies the presence of a biomedicine war nexus in which new forms of wounding provoke the continual development of complex treatment rehabilitation and prosthetic technologies At the same time the U S military rationalizes violence and military occupation as necessary conditions for advancing medical knowledge and saving lives Terry examines the treatment of war generated polytrauma postinjury bionic prosthetics design and the development of defenses against infectious pathogens showing how the interdependence between war and biomedicine is interwoven with neoliberal ideals of freedom democracy and prosperity She also outlines the ways in which military sponsored biomedicine relies on racialized logics that devalue the lives of Afghan and Iraqi citizens and U S veterans of color Uncovering the mechanisms that attach all Americans to war and highlighting their embeddedness and institutionalization in everyday life via the government media biotechnology finance and higher education Terry helps lay the foundation for a more meaningful opposition to war
