Motion And Representation The Language Of Human Movement:

Motion and Representation Nicolas Salazar Sutil, 2015-05-08 An examination of the ways human movement can be represented as a formal language and how this language can be mediated technologically In Motion and Representation Nicol s Salazar Sutil considers the representation of human motion through languages of movement and technological mediation He argues that technology transforms the representation of movement and that representation in turn transforms the way we move and what we understand to be movement Humans communicate through movement physically and mentally To record and capture integrated movement both bodily and mental by means of formal language and technological media produces a material record and cultural expression of our evolving kinetic minds and identities Salazar Sutil considers three forms of movement inscription a written record notation a visual record animation and a computational record motion capture He focuses on what he calls kinetic formalism formalized movement in such pursuits as dance sports live animation and kinetic art as well as abstract definitions of movement in mathematics and computer science He explores the representation of kinetic space and spatiotemporality the representation of mental plans of movement movement notation including stave notation Labanotation and such contemporary forms of notation as Choreographic Language Agent and the impact of digital technology on contemporary representations of movement in particular motion capture technology and Internet transfer protocols Motion and Representation offers a unique cultural theory of movement and of the ever changing ways of representing movement

Advances in Computer Graphics I Günter Enderle,Michel Grave,Frank Lillehagen,2013-06-29 This book is the sixth issue in the EurographicSeminars Series This series has been set up by Eurographics the European Association for Computer Graphics in order to disseminate surveys and research results out of the field of Computer Graphics Computer Graphics constitute a powerful and versatile tool for various application areas The rapidly increasing use of Computer Graphics techniques and systems in many areas is caused by the availability of more powerful hardware at lower prices by the concise specification of Computer Graphics Interfaces in commonly agreed standards and by the invention of new and often astonishing methods and algorithms for composition and presentation of pictures and for graphical interaction While some issues of this series contain latest research results e g the issues in window management systems or user interface management systems this book has the character of a state of the art survey on important areas of Computer Graphics Starting from current practice and agreed consensus it will lead to the latest achievements in this field The contributions in this issue are largely based on tutorials and seminars held at the Eurographics conferences 1984 in Copenhagen and 1985 in Nice The Phonetics of Fingerspelling Sherman Wilcox, 1992-01-01 We now know that natural signed languages such as American Sign Language French Sign Language British Sign Language and others are fully independent languages But natural signed languages are only one way of conveying language in the visual gestural modality Signed languages also have mechanisms for representing the material of oral languages Fingerspelling is one example of such a representational system This book examines fingerspelling from a phonetic perspective Several studies of the kinematics of fingerspelling articulators are reported From these detailed analyses of articulator timings and velocities conclusions are drawn which suggest that like speech fingerspelling may be explained in terms of coordinative structures and task dynamics The thrust of the book is to explore the notion that signed and spoken languages can be compared not only as abstract linguistic systems but also at the physical level as dynamically structured articulations An implication of these studies is that a common basis in gesture can be found for the production perception and neural organization of signed and spoken languages Graphics Interface '86, Vision Interface '86, 1986

Moving without a Body Stamatia Portanova, 2024-02-06 A radically empirical exploration of movement and technology and the transformations of choreography in a digital realm Digital technologies offer the possibility of capturing storing and manipulating movement abstracting it from the body and transforming it into numerical information In Moving without a Body Stamatia Portanova considers what really happens when the physicality of movement is translated into a numerical code by a technological system Drawing on the radical empiricism of Gilles Deleuze and Alfred North Whitehead she argues that this does not amount to a technical assessment of software's capacity to record motion but requires a philosophical rethinking of what movement itself is or can become Discussing the development of different audiovisual tools and the shift from analog to digital she focuses on some choreographic realizations of this evolution including works by Loie Fuller and Merce Cunningham Throughout Portanova considers these technologies and dances as ways to think rather than just perform or perceive movement She distinguishes the choreographic thought from the performance a body performs a movement and a mind thinks or choreographs a dance Similarly she sees the move from analog to digital as a shift in conception rather than simply in technical realization Analyzing choreographic technologies for their capacity to redesign the way movement is thought Moving without a Body offers an ambitiously conceived reflection on the ontological implications of the encounter between movement and technological systems Summary of Awards, 1987
