Andreas Wichert

Mind Brain And Free Will:

Mind, Brain, and Free Will Richard Swinburne, 2013-01-17 Richard Swinburne presents a powerful case for substance dualism and libertarian free will. He argues that pure mental and physical events are distinct and defends an account of agent causation in which the soul can act independently of bodily causes. We are responsible for our actions and the findings of neuroscience cannot prove otherwise.

Who's in Charge? Michael Gazzaniga, 2012-04-19 The prevailing orthodoxy in brain science is that since physical laws govern our physical brains physical laws therefore govern our behaviour and even our conscious selves. Free will is meaningless goes the mantra we live in a determined world. Not so argues the renowned neuroscientist Michael S Gazzaniga as he explains how the mind constrains the brain just as cars are constrained by the traffic they create. Writing with what Steven Pinker has called his trademark wit and lack of pretension Gazzaniga ranges across neuroscience psychology and ethics to show how incorrect it is to blame our brains for our behaviour. Even given the latest insights into the physical mechanisms of the mind he explains we are responsible agents who should be held accountable for our actions because responsibility is found in how people interact not in brains. An extraordinary book combining a light touch with profound implications. Who's in Charge is a lasting contribution from one of the leading thinkers of our time.

Mind, Brain, Quantum AI, and the Multiverse Andreas Wichert, 2022-10-11 There is a long lasting controversy concerning our mind and consciousness. Mind Brain Quantum AI and the Multiverse proposes a connection between the mind the brain and the multiverse. The author introduces the main philosophical ideas concerning mind and freedom and explains the basic principles of computer science artificial intelligence of brain research quantum physics and quantum artificial intelligence. He indicates how we can provide an answer to the problem of the mind and consciousness by describing the nature of the physical world. His proposed explanation includes the Everett Many Worlds theory. This book tries to avoid any non essential metaphysical speculations. The text is an essential compilation of knowledge in philosophy computer science biology and quantum physics. It is written for readers without any requirements in mathematics physics or computer science.

Free Will and the Human Sciences in Britain, 1870-1910 Roger Smith, 2015-07-28 From the late nineteenth century onwards religion gave way to science as the dominant force in society. This led to a questioning of the principle of free will. If the workings of the human mind could be reduced to purely physiological explanations then what place was there for human agency and self improvement. Smith takes an in depth look at the problem of free will through the prism of different disciplines. Physiology psychology philosophy evolutionary theory ethics history and sociology all played a part in the debates that took place. His subtly nuanced navigation through these arguments has much to contribute to our understanding of Victorian and Edwardian science and culture as well as having relevance to current debates on the role of genes in determining behaviour.

Minds, Brains, Souls and Gods Malcolm Jeeves, 2013-08-05 In this hypothetical correspondence Malcolm Jeeves urges Christian students to enter the brave new world of neuroscience ready to have their faith examined and their experiences of God put to the test When we do this he argues being mindful of oversimplifications as we go the integration of Christianity and psychology becomes possible

Is Science Compatible with Free Will? Antoine Suarez, Peter Adams, 2012-12-22 Anyone who claims the right to choose how to live their life excludes any purely deterministic description of their brain in terms of genes chemicals or environmental influences For example when an author of a text expresses his thoughts he assumes that in typing the text he governs the firing of the neurons in his brain and the movement of his fingers through the exercise of his own free will what he writes is not completely pre determined at the beginning of the universe Yet in the field of neuroscience today determinism dominates There is a conflict between the daily life conviction that a human being has free will and deterministic neuroscience When faced with this conflict two alternative positions are possible Either human freedom is an illusion or deterministic neuroscience is not the last word on the brain and will eventually be superseded by a neuroscience that admits processes not completely determined by the past This book investigates whether it is possible to have a science in which there is room for human freedom The book generally concludes that the world and the brain are governed to some extent by non material agencies and limited consciousness does not abolish free will and responsibility The authors present perspectives coming from different disciplines Neuroscience Quantumphysics and Philosophy and range from those focusing on the scientific background to those highlighting rather more a philosophical analysis However all chapters share a common characteristic they take current scientific observations and data as a basis from which to draw philosophical implications It is these features that make this volume unique an exceptional interdisciplinary approach combining scientific strength and philosophical profundity We are convinced that it will strongly stimulate the debate and contribute to new insights in the mind brain relationship

A Rational Faith Joshua Sijuwade, 2025-03-27 A comprehensive analysis of Richard Swinburne s intellectual journey and philosophical work A Rational Faith explores the legacy of one of the most influential and rigorous philosophical defenders of theism Across Swinburne s written career he has displayed a deep commitment to demonstrating the intellectual credibility of the Christian faith facing modern scientific and philosophical challenges and the materialistic worldview of modern intellectualism Analysing his life and work through in depth accessible explanations of key issues and their context Joshua Sijuwade brings together collected criticism of Swinburne s work and explores possible counter arguments alongside a foreword by Richard Swinburne himself Suitable for any reader interested in Swinburne s philosophy first approach or those intrigued by a philosophical defence of the Christian faith A Rational Faith reveals Swinburne s life and work as a witness to his belief that belief in the central tenets of the Christian faith is rational

Theology of the Soul Martine C. L. Oldhoff, 2024-06-10 Theology of the Soul engages with a thoroughly theological and philosophical subject in fresh and profound ways the soul The author examines the possibility of a concept of the soul in modern Western theology In the second part of the 20th century speaking about the soul was strongly criticized in Theology and Philosophy Consequently many academic theologians consider the word soul problematic Remarkably the word soul is very much present in contemporary culture This book takes cultural notions of the soul as employed by for example Marilynne Robinson and Oprah Winfrey as a point of departure The author then investigates the functions of the soul in classical theologies and provides elucidating overviews of the ways in which the soul is discussed and problematized in contemporary Philosophy and Biblical Studies After introducing the apostle Paul as conversation partner she reconsiders various contemporary concepts from a Pauline perspective and offers a constructive systematic theological proposal to speak of the soul in today s modern theological and cultural contexts This interdisciplinary study integrates continental and analytic methods and discussions on the soul in Philosophy and Theology providing a very comprehensive study of the soul

Free Will Nicholaus Rescher, 2013-05-02 Few philosophical issues have had as long and elaborate a history as the problem of free will which has been contested at every stage of the history of the subject The present work practices an extensive bibliography of this elaborate literature listing some five thousand items ranging from classical antiquity to the present

"The Principles of Psychology." Frederic William Henry Myers, 1891

The Volitional Brain Benjamin Libet, Anthony Freeman, Keith Sutherland, 2000-06-08 It is widely accepted in science that the universe is a closed deterministic system in which everything can ultimately be explained by purely physical causation And yet we all experience ourselves as having the freedom to choose between alternatives presented to us we are in the driving seat The puzzling status of volition is explored in this issue by a distinguished body of scientists and philosophers

The Moral Mind Henry Haslam, 2005 This survey of the moral mind shows how our moral sense engages with different aspects of the human personality with our instincts inherited from our pre human primate ancestors with the way we follow the customs of our community and with our sense of something beyond these instincts and customs The author seeks to show how far evolutionary theory can help us to understand our moral thinking and in the final chapter Henry Haslam suggests how we may be able to work towards a new consensus on moral issues

Wesleyan-Methodist Magazine ,1885 Did My Neurons Make Me Do It? Nancey Murphy,Warren S. Brown,2007-06-14 If humans are purely physical and if it is the brain that does the work formerly assigned to the mind or soul then how can it fail to be the case that all of our thoughts and actions are determined by the laws of neurobiology If this is the case then free will moral responsibility and indeed reason itself would appear to be in jeopardy Nancey Murphy and Warren S Brown here defend a non reductive version of physicalism whereby humans are sometimes the authors of their own thoughts and actions Did My Neurons Make Me Do It brings together insights from both philosophy and the cognitive neurosciences to defeat neurobiological reductionism One resource is a post Cartesian account of mind as essentially embodied and constituted by action feedback evaluation action loops in the environment and scaffolded by cultural resources Another is a non mysterious account of downward mental causation explained in terms of a complex higher order system exercising constraints on lower level causal processes These resources are intrinsically related the embeddedness of brain events in action feedback loops is the key to their mentality and those broader systems have causal effects on the brain itself With these resources Murphy and Brown take on two problems in philosophy of mind a response to the charges that physicalists cannot account for the meaningfulness of language nor the causal efficacy of the mental qua mental Solutions to these problems are a prerequisite to addressing the central problem of the book how can biological organisms be free and morally responsible The authors argue that the free will problem is badly framed if it is put in terms of neurobiological determinism the real issue is neurobiological reductionism If it is indeed possible to make sense of the notion of downward causation then the relevant question is whether humans exert downward causation over some of their own parts and processes If all organisms do this to some extent what needs to be added to this animalian flexibility to constitute free and responsible action The keys are sophisticated language and hierarchically ordered cognitive processes allowing mature humans to evaluate their own actions motives goals and rational and moral principles
