

BEING MINDFUL WITH THE 5 SENSES

Observe what is around you. Notice shapes, colors, and textures.

Take time and look at things you might not usually notice.

Take the time to listen to what is in the background instead of what is obvious.

Listen for previously unnoticed sounds, such as the hum of the refrigerator.

Become aware of the differing feel of everyday items that surround you.

Touch items with various textures and notice the differences among them.

Take a drink, and notice the feel of the liquid rolling over your tongue.

Chew on a piece of gum and notice how the taste changes over time.

Focus your attention on your surroundings to notice what different smells are in the air.

Pay attention to what scents invoke different feelings in you.

Mindfulness And Learning Mindfulness And Learning:

Mindfulness and Learning Terry Hyland, 2011-08-21 In recent decades education at all levels has been seriously impoverished by a growing obsession with standards targets skills and competences According to this model only a circumscribed range of basic cognitive skills and competences are the business of education whose main role is to provide employability credentials for people competing for jobs in the global economy The result is a one dimensional economic and bleakly utilitarian conception of the educational task In Mindfulness and Learning Celebrating the Affective Dimension of Education Terry Hyland advances the thesis that education stands in need of a rejuvenation of its affective function the impact it has on the emotional social moral and personal development of learners Drawing on the Buddhist conception of mindfulness he advances a powerful argument for redressing this imbalance by enhancing the affective domain of learning Mindfulness and Learning Celebrating the Affective Dimension of Education shows how the concept and practice of mindfulness non judgmental present moment awareness and experience can enrich learning at all levels Mindfulness thus contributes to the enhanced achievement of general educational goals and helps remedy the gross deficiency of the affective emotional aspects of contemporary theory and practice The author outlines a mindfulness based affective education MBE programme and shows how it might be introduced into educational provision from the early years to adult education with a view to harmonising the cognitive affective balance across the system

Mindfulness in the Classroom Thomas Armstrong, 2019-07-18 In today's schools students and teachers feel unprecedented even alarming levels of stress How can we create calmer classrooms in which students concentrate better and feel more positive about themselves and others Author Thomas Armstrong offers a compelling answer in the form of mindfulness a secular practice he defines as the intentional focus of one's attention on the present moment in a nonjudgmental way In Mindfulness in the Classroom Armstrong Explains how mindfulness affects the structure and function of the brain Provides an overview of mindfulness as both a personal practice and a classroom methodology that aligns with such educational models as Social and Emotional Learning SEL Positive Behavioral Intervention and Supports PBIS and Universal Design for Learning UDL Shares and explains the extensive research that shows the positive effects of mindfulness practices in the classroom Describes how to adapt mindfulness for different grade levels integrate it into regular school subjects and implement it schoolwide Offers guidelines for teaching mindfulness responsibly without religious overtones Dozens of observations from teachers students researchers and practitioners provide striking evidence of the power of mindfulness and offer hope to anyone who wants to make classrooms more productive places of learning
