Privacy, Technology, and the Criminal Process Andrew Roberts, Joe Purshouse, Jason Bosland, 2023-07-28 This collection considers the implications for privacy of the utilisation of new technologies in the criminal process In most modern liberal democratic states privacy is considered a basic right Many national constitutions and almost all international human rights instruments include some guarantee of privacy Yet privacy interests appear to have had relatively little influence on criminal justice policy making The threat that technology poses to these interests demands critical re evaluation of current law policy and practice This is provided by the contributions to this volume They offer legal criminological philosophical and comparative perspectives The book will be of interest to legal and criminological scholars and postgraduate students Its interdisciplinary methodology and focus on the intersection between law and technology make it also relevant for philosophers and those interested in science and technology studies

Degrees of Freedom Tom Williams, 2025-12-09 Why the field of robotics tends to reinforce white patriarchal systems of power and how roboticists can work to change these systems In Degrees of Freedom Tom Williams explores critical questions at the intersection of robotics and social justice He considers the ways in which roboticists design their robots appearance how robots think and act how robots perceive people and the domains into which robots are deployed The book highlights not only the ways roboticists tend to reinforce white patriarchal power structures but also how roboticists might instead subvert those power structures by applying theories and methods from a diverse range of fields Drawing on computer science history and politics law criminology and sociology feminist ethnic and Black studies literary and media studies and social moral and cognitive psychology the book connects questions of robot design with larger abolitionist movements by presenting a vision for a more socially just future of robotics

We, the Data Wendy H. Wong, 2023-10-10 A rallying call for extending human rights beyond our physical selves and why we need to reboot rights in our data intensive world Winner of the 2024 Balsillie Prize for Public Policy Shortlisted 2024 Lionel Gelber Prize Our data intensive world is here to stay but does that come at the cost of our humanity in terms of autonomy community dignity and equality In We the Data Wendy H Wong argues that we cannot allow that to happen Exploring the pervasiveness of data collection and tracking Wong reminds us that we are all stakeholders in this digital world who are currently being left out of the most pressing conversations around technology ethics and policy This book clarifies the nature of datafication and calls for an extension of human rights to recognize how data complicate what it means to safeguard and encourage human potential As we go about our lives we are co creating data through what we do We must embrace that these data are a part of who we are Wong explains even as current policies do not yet reflect the extent to which human experiences have changed This means we are more than mere subjects or sources of data by products that can be harvested and used by technology companies and governments By exploring data rights facial recognition technology our posthumous rights and our need for a right to data literacy Wong has crafted a compelling case for engaging as stakeholders to hold data collectors accountable Just as the Universal Declaration of Human Rights laid the global groundwork for human rights We the Data gives us a foundation upon which we claim human rights in the age of data Technocreep and the Politics of Things Not Seen Neda Atanasoski, Nassim Parvin, 2025-04-11 New and emerging technologies especially ones that infiltrate intimate spaces relations homes and bodies are often referred to as creepy in media and political discourses In Technocreep and the Politics of Things Not Seen Neda Atanasoski and Nassim Parvin introduce a feminist theory of creep that they substantiate through critical engagement with smart homes smart dust smart desires and smart forests toward dreams of feminist futures Contributing authors further illuminate what is otherwise obscured assumed or dismissed in characterizations of technology as creepy or creeping Considering diverse technologies such as border surveillance and China's credit system to sexcams and home assistants the volume's essays and artworks demonstrate that the potentials and pitfalls of artificial intelligence and digital and robotic technologies cannot be assessed through binaries of seeing being seen privacy surveillance or harmful useful Together their multifaceted and multimodal approach transcends such binaries accounting for technological relations that exceed sight to include touch presence trust and diverse modes of collectivity As such this volume develops creep as a feminist analytic and creative mode on par with technology's complex entanglement with intimate local and global politics Contributors Neda Atanasoski Katherine Bennett Iv n Chaar L pez Sushmita Chatterjee Hayri Dortdivanlioglu Sanaz Haghani Jacob Hagelberg Jennifer Hamilton Antonia Hernandez Marjan Khatibi Tamara Kneese Erin McElroy Vernelle A A Noel Jessica Olivares Nassim Parvin Beth Semel Renee Shelby Tanja Wiehn The 80% Minority Joanne Thomas Yaccato, Judy Jaeger, 2003 Onlife Criminology Janos Mark Szokolczai, 2025-07-31 Digital tools such as smart devices personal trackers and social media have become part of daily life for many Onlife online life criminology is the study of crime and social harm produced by the blurring lines between digital engagement and our everyday lives that we may not even be aware of From AI security breaches to the proliferation of conspiracy theories this thought provoking book analyses the serious threats of surveillance targeted indoctrination and abuse of personal data that can potentially affect us all The book explores alternatives to the current situation and presents practical and more sustainable solutions for internet use USA Today, 2000 E-commerce Kenneth C.
