Gentle Nutrition Rachael Hartley,2021-02-23 Intuitive eating is a non diet approach to healthy eating that focuses on unlearning diet cultures toxic messaging so you can build a healthier relationship with food and your body and focus on health promoting behaviors as opposed to weight loss There is a common perception that intuitive eating approaches are also anti nutrition but that s simply not the case In this book registered dietitian Rachael Hartley looks at the role of gentle nutrition in intuitive eating She explores why diets don t work and make you eat less healthfully why weight doesn t equal health and how to approach nutrition in a flexible way with the goal of promoting wellbeing not reaching for an arbitrary number on the scale Gentle Nutrition A Non Diet Approach to Healthy Eating focuses on the big picture rather than getting wrapped up in minor details that can make nutrition seem confusing or overwhelming Hartley makes it practical as well by offering science based straightforward strategies for building healthy habits In Gentle Nutrition she explains how to plan satisfying meals and snacks that nourish the body throughout the day while honoring the need to pleasure in food The book includes more than 50 nutritious and delicious recipes for breakfasts main dishes snacks and desserts There are many people who don t want to diet but do want to better understand how to take care of their bodies with food This approachable guide brings to light how nutrition fits into the context of intuitive eating When we leave diet culture behind and remove the assumption that weight equals health we can focus on truly honoring our health and well being      Project SHAPE

Guadalupe Xochitl Ayala,2002 The increasing prevalence of obesity and chronic conditions are often attributed to increases in energy intake However the scientific validity of this relationship is threatened by the rate of low energy reporting associated with dietary assessment One of the goals of this study was to address the underreporting problem by improving accuracy in portion estimation and energy intake following a brief computer or group intervention on portion estimation The primary outcomes of interest included estimation of real foods and food models and accuracy of energy intake using a 24 hour dietary recall and two food records Secondary outcomes included self efficacy knowledge of portion size information and social desirability Repeated measures MANOVA were used to examine changes in portion estimation skills and accuracy of energy intake between baseline and post intervention and as a function of the intervention A convenience sample of 76 women was recruited interviewed at baseline randomly assigned to one of three conditions and then assessed two weeks post intervention The baseline and post intervention interviews consisted of a survey real and plastic food model portion size tests one 24 hour dietary recall two days of food records and assessment of height and weight Participants assigned to the intervention conditions group or computer based received one hour of training Results indicated that the intervention was not effective in improving real food portion size estimation abilities Women were observed making greater estimation errors at post intervention compared with baseline Estimation errors were greater with amorphous foods compared with solids and liquids The intervention was effective in improving estimation errors on the food model test improving self efficacy and advancing knowledge of portion size information Accuracy of energy intake did not improve between baseline and post intervention or as a function of the intervention However social desirability was found to be associated with energy intake In addition the number of low energy reporters decreased between baseline and post intervention among participants in the group condition Nevertheless the prevalence of low energy reporting in this sample was very high Further research is needed to develop easily transportable interventions that will improve accuracy of energy reporting and portion estimation skills Interventions delivered by computer may need to be designed to provide more opportunities for multiple sensory interactions
