The Routledge Handbook of Classics, Colonialism, and Postcolonial Theory Katherine Blouin, Ben Akrigg, 2024-07-29 This handbook explores the ways in which histories of colonialism and postcolonial thought and theory cast light on our understanding of the ancient Mediterranean world and the discipline of Classics utilizing a wide body of case studies and providing avenues for future research and discussion. It brings together chapters by a wide international and intersectional range of scholars coming from a variety of backgrounds and sub disciplinary perspectives and from across the chronological and geographical scope of Classics. Chapters cover the state of current research into ancient Mediterranean and South Central and West Asian histories. They provide case studies to illustrate both how postcolonial thought has already illuminated our understanding of the ancient Mediterranean world and beyond as well as its potential for the future. Chapters also provide opportunities for reflection on the current state of the discipline. An introduction by the volume editors offers a survey of the development of postcolonial theory its relationship to other bodies of theory and its connections to Classics. Toward the end of the book three scholars with different career and disciplinary perspectives provide short reflections on the themes of the volume and the directions of future research. The Routledge Handbook of Classics Colonialism and Postcolonial Theory offers an impressive collection of current research and thought on the subject for students and scholars in classical studies understood in its larger sense as well as in related disciplines such as Archaeology Ancient History Imperial History and the History of Colonialism Reception Studies and Museum Studies. For anyone interested in classical antiquity it provides an engaging introduction to a potentially bewildering but ultimately vital and enriching body of thought and theory.

Cultural Reflections and the Role of Advertising in the Socio-economic and National Development of Nigeria Emmanuel C. Alozie,2005 This study focuses on the role of advertising in the process of social mobilization and modernization in Nigeria by examining the cultural reflections the nature and characteristics of the messages and the values and symbols conveyed in Nigerian mass media advertisements In this remarkable study Emmanuel C Alozie has attempted to explore the role of advertising in the national and economic development of Nigeria Examining this role through a combination of quantitative content analysis and critical cultural methods he has pursued a number of basic research questions For example one question asks what proportion of the advertisements in Nigerian mass media is directed to business entities as opposed to ordinary consumers The answer he provides presents an interesting perspective on advertising s role His research also found that most ads were product related and less than a third of the ads were related to service one indication of the relative underdevelopment of the economy Ads also promoted largely nonessential products and services to the tune of 65 per cent developing country like Nigeria the multitiered government agencies would provide a major share of the media advertising In reality only a tiny proportion about 5 per cent actually came from government sources the rest of the advertising was provided by the national and multinational corporations Alozie also found that Nigerian sponsors tend to promote goods of foreign origin over those of Nigerian derivative Overall he found that less than half the products and services advertised 42 per cent were of Nigerian origin with much of the products nonessential in nature Advertising messages with embedded appeals have the potential of manipulating consumers and promoting unproductive consumption habits among consumers in a situation of scarcity Therefore the appeals that are used in the advertising content become an important issue in a developing nation like Nigeria Alozie did not find extensive use of the image youth and sex appeals in the ads so prevalent in the West even though some of these appeals were found to have crept into the content primary selling point In addition emphasis was on savings family and safety for products regardless of whether the ads featured high involvement or low involvement products and services For decades policy makers in the developing world have debated the need for using mass media for human resource moralization by emphasizing developmental themes To what extent Nigerian ads contain developmental themes is a question Alozie explores He finds that some ads do contain developmental themes such as savings self development modernization investment hard work competition etc These themes however appear rather infrequently Financial institutions emphasize developmental themes while manufacturing enterprises do not The author underscores the need for the government to encourage private and public corporations to include developmental themes in their advertising messages to promote individual as well as communal or collective interests messages the author draws some broad conclusions that provide significant insight into Nigeria's prevailing advertising scene For example he concludes that the degree of information on products and services available in the country is inadequate because of low level advertising Even though developmental themes are employed in advertising messages the sparcity of their use is not likely to promote national development Broadcast advertisements are more democratic than those in the print media primarily because they promote products and services more affordable to the average consumer In general consumer products advertised in Nigeria are frequently of foreign origin and therefore they are targeted to the elite who can afford the expensive nonessential products The author recognizes the value and need for advertising that can disseminate not only beneficial information about products and services but can also serve as an effective tool in government's hands to promote information on significant social and developmental issues and policies that will affect the public scholars and researchers have contributed to the sizeable existing literature on development few have examined advertising as a meaningful means of communication for developmental messages and values Through his study Alozie has attempted to fill this void Students and scholars with an interest in the media of developing nations will find the articulation of the various theories concerning socio economic development quite stimulating But more importantly by answering a range of significant questions about the nature and types of advertising messages published or aired in the Nigerian mass media discussing what themes and values they contain and how relevant they are or influence the developmental goals of the nation the author offers a study that is useful insightful and rewarding
