Mediating Climate Change Mediating Climate Change:

Mediating Climate Change Julie Doyle, 2011 Mediating Climate Change explores how practices of mediation and visualisation shape how we think about address and act upon climate change Through historical and contemporary case studies drawn from science media politics and culture Doyle identifies the representational problems climate change poses for public and political debate She explores how climate change can be made more meaningful and calls for a more nuanced understanding of human environmental relations

Mediating Climate Change Dr Julie Doyle, 2013-01-28 Climate change has been a significant area of scientific concern since the late 1970s but has only recently entered mainstream culture and politics However as media coverage of climate change increases in the twenty first century the gap between our understanding of climate change and climate action appears to widen In this timely book Julie Doyle explores how practices of mediation and visualisation shape how we think about address and act upon climate change Through historical and contemporary case studies drawn from science media politics and culture Mediating Climate Change identifies the representational problems climate change poses for public and political debate It offers ways forward by exploring how climate change can be made more meaningful through for example innovative forms of climate activism the reframing of meat and dairy consumption media engagement with climate events and science and artistic experimentation Doyle argues that cultural discourses have problematically situated nature and the environment as objects externalised from humans and culture Mediating Climate Change calls for a more nuanced understanding of human environmental relations in order for us to be able to more fully imagine and address the challenges climate change poses for us all

Mediating Environmental Conflicts J. Walton Blackburn, Willa M. Bruce, 1995-06-13 Environmental conflicts are increasing in number and intensity demanding new approaches to dispute resolution such as environmental mediation This book contains the expertise of 28 specialists stresses the need for mediated dispute resolution as an alternative to litigation calls for a communitarian approach explores conceptual foundations and conflicts resistant to mediation and answers How do we know what we know Addresses training mediators discusses special problems of small communities value of citizen participation and EPA regulatory negotiation explores ethics and social justice and considers future challenges and issues confronting theory and practice Case studies analyze nuclear waste siting highway design wilderness designation field burning and Environmental Impact Statement development Intended for alternative dispute resolution practitioners scholars and citizen environmentalists Authors provide insights from many academic disciplines and practical experience Reed advocates creating sustainable communities O Leary calls for new research Maida contends that law and economics offer viable perspectives and Allen prescribes mediation training Dworkin and Jordan contribute a teaching case Klase addresses problems in rural areas and the Burgesses offer steps to make difficult confrontations constructive Clary and Hornney argue that prenegotiation and negotiation are essential Richardson describes facilitated negotiation and Bogdonoff explains negotiated rule making in Maine Stephens Stephens and Dukes suggest that ethical considerations are due the environment Blackford and Matunga advise sensitivity to cultural differences Ryan demonstrates the utility of conflict management by the EPA Wood and Guy describe how local governments can achieve consensus and Baird Maughan and Nilson offer reasons mediation failed in Idaho Mangerich and Luton describe an urban rural conflict in Washington state and Blackburn provides his Eclectic Theory to guide future research Climate Change Communication Daniel James Scott, Canada.
