Media Mobilization And Human Rights Mediating Suffering:

Media, Mobilization, and Human Rights Tristan Anne Borer, 2012-11-08 What impact do mass media portrayals of atrocities have on activism Why do these news stories sometimes mobilize people while at other times they are met with indifference Do different forms of media have greater or lesser impacts on mobilization These are just some of the questions addressed in Media Mobilization and Human Rights which investigates the assumption that exposure to human rights violations in countries far away causes people to respond with activism Turning a critical eye on existing scholarship which argues either that viewing and reading about violence can serve as a force for good through increased activism or as a source of evil by objectifying and exploiting the victims of violence the authors argue that reality is far more complex and that there is nothing inherently positive or negative about exposure to the suffering of others In exploring this the book offers an array of case studies from human rights reporting in Mexican newspapers to the impact of media imagery on humanitarian intervention in Somalia from the influence of celebrity activism to the growing role of social media By examining a variety of media forms from television and radio to social networking the interdisciplinary set of authors present radical new ways of thinking about the intersection of media portrayals of human suffering and activist responses to them

The Media and Human Rights Ekaterina Balabanova, 2014-09-25 In recent years there has been an explosion in the usage and visibility of the language of human rights but what does this mean for the role of the media For evolving ideas about human rights And for the prospect of shared cosmopolitan values Ekaterina Balabanova argues that in order to answer these questions there needs to be a deconstruction of monolithic ways of thinking about the media and human rights incorporating the spectrum of political arguments and worldviews that underpin both Ten case studies are presented which illustrate many of the problems and challenges associated with the relationship between the media and human rights The examples range from cases of humanitarian intervention to analysis of global human rights campaigning on refugee issues from immigration and asylum to genocide freedom of speech and torture Anchored in an appreciation of the political conflicts and compromises at the heart of international human rights agreements The Media and Human Rights is an invaluable resource for students studying media and human rights international politics security studies and political communication

Information in International Law José M. Reis, 2024-10-16 Examining state behavior this book sheds light on the often overlooked role of information production and diffusion in international law and relations Most theories of public international law and state behavior rely on a certain degree of international law related information such as an international legal ruling being made public and diffused to reach various key actors such as third states or domestic actors However while assumptions about information being produced and diffused permeate international legal scholarly work these assumptions have not been systematically and empirically evaluated Based on an empirical analysis the author challenges prevailing assumptions by systematically evaluating the accessibility and dissemination of crucial international law related information such as treaty negotiation documents or legal rulings Using a variety of quantitative case studies on key stages of international lawmaking and covering various issue areas from human rights to trade law each chapter traverses three critical levels of analysis namely whether international law information is public and transparent whether the information is salient and reaches the general public and how the information is framed by the media and political elites The book will appeal to students researchers and scholars of law political science and economics as well as policy makers interested in a better understanding of information production and diffusion in international law and the impact of public opinion on compliance with international law

These violations could be committed by the state as well as non state actors Non state actors violate people s Human Rights through direct involvement or indirectly when they consent to such violations Non state actors such as individuals groups informal or organized ad hoc or continuous may pose as violators protectors or intermediaries Human Rights
