Mediated Geographies and Geographies of Media Susan P. Mains, Julie Cupples, Chris Lukinbeal, 2015-10-12 This is the first comprehensive volume to explore and engage with current trends in Geographies of Media research It reviews how conceptualizations of mediated geographies have evolved Followed by an examination of diverse media contexts and locales the book illustrates key issues through the integration of theoretical and empirical case studies and reflects on the future challenges and opportunities faced by scholars in this field The contributions by an international team of experts in the field address theoretical perspectives on mediated geographies methodological challenges and opportunities posed by geographies of media the role and significance of different media forms and organizations in relation to socio spatial relations the dynamism of media in local global relations and in depth case studies of mediated locales Given the theoretical and methodological diversity of this book it will provide an important reference for geographers and other interdisciplinary scholars working in cultural and media studies researchers in environmental studies sociology visual anthropology new technologies and political science who seek to understand and explore the interconnections of media space and place through the examples of specific practices and settings Communications/Media/Geographies Paul C. Adams, Julie Cupples, Kevin Glynn, André Jansson, Shaun Moores, 2016-09-19 Although there are human geographers who have previously written on matters of media and communication and those in media and communication studies who have previously written on geographical issues this is the first book length dialogue in which experienced theorists and researchers from these different fields address each other directly and engage in conversation across traditional academic boundaries The result is a compelling discussion with the authors setting out statements of their positions before responding to the arguments made by others One significant aspect of this discussion is a spirited debate about the sort of interdisciplinary area that might emerge as a focus for future work Does the already established idea of communication geography offer the best way forward If so what would applied or critical forms of communication geography be concerned to do Could communication geography benefit from the sorts of conjunctural analysis that have been developed in contemporary cultural studies Might a further way forward be to imagine an interdisciplinary field of everyday life studies which would draw critically on non representational theories of practice and movement Readers of Communications Media Geographies are invited to join the debate thinking through such questions for themselves and the themes that are explored in this book for example of space place meaning power and ethics will be of interest not only to academics in human geography and in media and communication studies but also to a wider range of scholars from across the humanities and social sciences

Contemporary Challenges in Mediatisation Research Katarzyna Kopecka-Piech, Göran Bolin, 2023-04-03 This book focuses on key challenges related to conducting research on mediatisation presenting the most current theoretical empirical and methodological challenges and problems addressing ignored and less frequently discussed topics critical and controversial themes and defining niches and directions of development in mediatisation With a focus on the under representation of certain topics and aspects as well as methodological technological and ethical dilemmas the chapters consider the main critical objections formulated against mediatisation studies and exchange critical positions Moving beyond areas of common focus culture sport and religion to emerging areas of study such as fashion the military business and the environment the book then offers a critical assessment of the transformation of fields and the relevance of new and dynamic meta processes including datafication counter mediatisation and platformisation Charting new paths of development in mediatisation this book will be of interest to scholars and students of mediatisation media studies media literacy communication studies and research methods

The Decolonial Turn in Media Studies in Africa and the Global South Last Moyo, 2020-09-09 This book develops a nuanced decolonial critique that calls for the decolonization of media and communication studies in Africa and the Global South Last Moyo argues that the academic project in African Media Studies and other non Western regions continues to be shaped by Western modernity's histories of imperialism colonialism and the ideologies of Eurocentrism and neoliberalism While Africa and the Global South dismantled the physical empire of colonialism after independence the metaphysical empire of epistemic and academic colonialism is still intact and entrenched in the postcolonial university's academic programmes like media and communication studies To address these problems Moyo argues for the development of a Southern theory that is not only premised on the decolonization imperative but also informed by the cultures geographies and histories of the Global South The author recasts media studies within a radical cultural and epistemic turn that locates future projects of theory building within a decolonial multiculturalism that is informed by trans cultural and trans epistemic dialogue between Southern and Northern epistemologies
