Simulating Information Retrieval Test Collections David Hawking, Bodo Billerbeck, Paul Thomas, Nick Craswell, 2022-06-01 Simulated test collections may find application in situations where real datasets cannot easily be accessed due to confidentiality concerns or practical inconvenience They can potentially support Information Retrieval IR experimentation tuning validation performance prediction and hardware sizing Naturally the accuracy and usefulness of results obtained from a simulation depend upon the fidelity and generality of the models which underpin it The fidelity of emulation of a real corpus is likely to be limited by the requirement that confidential information in the real corpus should not be able to be extracted from the emulated version We present a range of methods exploring trade offs between emulation fidelity and degree of preservation of privacy We present three different simple types of text generator which work at a micro level Markov models neural net models and substitution ciphers We also describe macro level methods where we can engineer macro properties of a corpus giving a range of models for each of the salient properties document length distribution word frequency distribution for independent and non independent cases word length and textual representation and corpus growth We present results of emulating existing corpora and for scaling up corpora by two orders of magnitude We show that simulated collections generated with relatively simple methods are suitable for some purposes and can be generated very quickly Indeed it may sometimes be feasible to embed a simple lightweight corpus generator into an indexer for the purpose of efficiency studies Naturally a corpus of artificial text cannot support IR experimentation in the absence of a set of compatible queries We discuss and experiment with published methods for query generation and query log emulation We present a proof of the pudding study in which we observe the predictive accuracy of efficiency and effectiveness results obtained on emulated versions of TREC corpora The study includes three open source retrieval systems and several TREC datasets There is a trade off between confidentiality and prediction accuracy and there are interesting interactions between retrieval systems and datasets Our tentative conclusion is that there are emulation methods which achieve useful prediction accuracy while providing a level of confidentiality adequate for many applications Many of the methods described here have been implemented in the open source project SynthaCorpus accessible at <https://bitbucket.org/davidhawking/synthacorporus>
