Not Exactly Kees van Deemter, 2010-01-28 Not everything is black and white Our daily lives are full of vagueness or fuzziness Language is the most obvious example for instance when we describe someone as tall it is as though there is a particular height beyond which a person can be considered tall Likewise the terms blond or overweight in common usage We often think in discontinuous categories when we are considering something continuous In this book van Deemter cuts across various disciplines in considering the nature and importance of vagueness He looks at the principles of measurement and how we choose categories the vagueness lurking behind what seems at first sight crisp concepts such as that of the biological species uncertainties in grammar and the impact of vagueness on the programmes of Chomsky and Montague vagueness and mathematical logic computers vague descriptions and Natural Language Generation in AI a new class of programs will allow computers to handle descriptions such as the man in the yellow shirt Van Deemter shows why vagueness is in various circumstances both unavoidable and useful and how we are increasingly able to handle fuzziness in mathematical logic and computer science

Vagueness and Rationality in Language Use and Cognition Richard Dietz, 2019-09-17 This volume presents new conceptual and experimental studies which investigate the connection between vagueness and rationality from various systematic directions such as philosophy linguistics cognitive psychology computing science and economics Vagueness in language use and cognition has traditionally been interpreted in epistemic or semantic terms The standard view of vagueness specifically suggests that considerations of agency or rationality broadly conceived can be left out of the equation Most recently new literature on vagueness has been released which suggests that the standard view is inadequate and that considerations of rationality should factor into more comprehensive models of vagueness The methodological approaches presented here are diverse ranging from philosophical interpretations of rational credence for vagueness to adaptations of choice theory dynamic choice theory revealed preference models social choice theory probabilistic models of pragmatic reasoning Bayesian pragmatics evolutionary game theory and conceptual space models of categorisation
