The Future of Planning Yvonne Rydin, 2013-09-11 For the past half century the planning system has operated on the basis of a growth dependence paradigm. It has been based on market led urban development and has sought to provide community benefits from a share of development profits. However we do not live in a world where growth can be taken for granted and we are more aware than previously of the implications for well being and sustainability. This timely book provides a fresh analysis of the limitations of the growth dependence planning paradigm. It considers alternative urban development models ways of protecting and enhancing existing low value land uses and means of managing community assets within the built environment. In each case it spells out the role that a reformed planning system could play in establishing a new agenda for planning. The book will be of relevance to planning students, planning professionals and planning academics as well as urban policy specialists more generally.

Sport and Physical Activity in Catastrophic Environments Jim Cherrington, Jack Black, 2022-11-08 This book considers the ability of individuals and communities to maintain healthy relationships with their surroundings before, during and after catastrophic events through physical activity and sporting practices. Broad and ambitious in scope this book uses sport and physical activity as a lens through which to examine our catastrophic societies and spaces. Acknowledging that catastrophes are complex overlapping phenomena in need of sophisticated interdisciplinary solutions this book explores the social, economic, ecological and moral injustices that determine the personal and emotional impact of catastrophe. Drawing from international case studies this book uniquely explores the different landscapes and contexts of catastrophe as well as the affective qualities of sporting practices. This includes topics such as DIY skateparks in Jamaica, former child soldiers in Africa, the funding of sport, recreation and cultural activities by extractive industries in northern Canada, mountain biking in the UK and urban exploration in New Zealand. Featuring the work of ex professional athletes, artists, anthropologists, sociologists, political ecologists, community development workers and philosophers this book offers new perspectives on capitalism, nature, sociality, morality and identity. This is essential reading for academics and practitioners in sociology, disaster studies, sport for development and political ecology.
